CONGRESS HAS OTHER RELIEF
PLANS ON WAYDOMESTIC PRODUCTS
FAVORED UNDER HOOVER IDEA

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Congress poised tonight for a new relief drive after turning over to the emergency reconstruction finance corporation its $500,000,000 of working capital.

Aid to depositors of closed banks is the next point in the bipartisan program, but Senator La Follette (R., Wis.) was ready to seek action tomorrow on his administration-opposed bill to provide $375,000,000 for direct federal relief to the unemployed.

Two banking sub-committees were in a veritable race to get before the senate companion measures intended to unlock the vaults of closed banks to destitute depositors. One or both of the bills will be up for consideration before the end of the week.

Final approval of the $500,000,000 treasury investment in the reconstruction corporation was given today in both branches to a report reconciling the different provisions of the senate and house.

Favors Home Products

As a part of the program the president outlined neared completion, he came forward with a new proposal for legislation to help business.

He recommended to congress that all government departments be authorized to give preference to domestic products in purchasing supplies and equipment.

In a letter to Speaker Garner, the chief executive urged laws which would permit federal bureaus to buy American products even though the price of similar foreign-made articles should be lower.

The letter was presented to the house and was referred to the expenditure committee.

Earlier, Mr. Hoover had announced he would make the recommendations and mentioned low bid from foreign sources to supply government equipment.

He said it was his understanding that these were made possible because of the abandonment by some governments abroad of the gold standard.

Tomorrow the senate banking committee will consider the three men selected by President Hoover to help run the reconstruction corporation—Charles G. Dawes, Harvey T. Couch of Arkansas, and Jesse Jones of Texas.

Confirmation of these men by the senate within the next two days will permit the corporation to go actively into the business of lending $5 billions to needy industries and agriculture.

Democrats who are still pondering the issue presented by the La Follette-Costigan bill for direct federal relief are ready to ask that this question go over until next Monday. La Follette previously gave notice he would call up the bill tomorrow.

The senate banking sub-committee headed by Senator Goldsborough (R., Md.), considering the administration's measure to establish a $750,000,000 corporation to speed relief for depositors is expected to make a final report tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Senator Glass (D., Va.), who is sponsoring a general banking revision measure, also including provision for aid to depositors of closed banks is ready to ask for action on his bill.

British Submarine M-2
Disabled on Bottom of Ocean; 54 Men Aboard

(Copyright 1932, By The Associated Press.)

Portland, Eng., Jan. 27 (Wed.) (AP)—The British submarine M-2, failed to rise and early today was feared to be lying disabled at the bottom of the English channel with 54 men aboard.

Searching ships, rushed to the scene, touched an object which they believed to be the vessel. It was 17 fathoms of water three miles west of Portland Bill, a rocky promontory, and gave a metallic ring when struck.

It could not be established before daylight if the object really was the submarine. Meanwhile, an anxious crowd on the coast

YANKS INDICTED
BY GRAND JURYSecond Degree Murder
Charges Placed in Hawaiian Case

Honolulu, Jan. 26 (AP)—Produced into action by a judge's reference to anarchy, the Honolulu grand jury today indicted Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society matron, and three navy men for second degree murder in the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, alleged attacker of Mrs. Fortescue's daughter.

The jury, which apparently had attempted last week to return a negative report in the case, submitted the indictment only after Circuit Judge A. M. Cristy had raised a question of anarchy and told its individual members they should retire from the jury if they could not reconcile their convictions with the testimony and the law.

Montgomery Winn, defense attorney, announced immediately he would file a motion tomorrow to quash the indictment on the ground coercion had been used to make the grand jury return the formal accusation.

Kahahawai was lured from the judiciary building January 8, abducted and slain. The lynching provided an amazing climax to a succession of crimes which had stirred the community.

Those indicted with Mrs. Fortescue and her son-in-law, Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted navy men, Kahahawai was one of five men awaiting trial on charges of attacking Mrs. Massie.

Pending legal action, the four accused have been held in the custody of naval officers at Pearl Harbor. The defense recently sought dismissal of a police court murder charge against the four on the ground the prosecution had been dilatory in proceeding against them.

A transcript of grand jury proceedings of last Friday, made public today, indicated Judge Cristy had refused to accept a return from the inquisitorial body but the nature of the return was not set forth. Reports had been circulated it was a "no bill," indicating the grand jury's disinclination to formally accuse the alleged slayers.

Attorneys Settle
Fight Over Will

Detroit, Jan. 26 (AP)—The contest over the will of the late Mrs. Emma I. Farwell involving an estate of $50,000 was settled out of court today by attorneys for the six first cousins contesting the instrument.

Under the terms of the settlement approximately $800,000 is to be deducted from the residue of the estate, amounting to $4,000,000, leaving approximately $3,200,000 for carrying out the provisions of the will for the erection and maintenance of two hospitals in Detroit.

Trainman Killed
In Crossing Crash

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—A grade crossing accident here tonight brought death to a member of the train crew, while the motorist escaped injuries.

F. J. Tribbey, 60, of Durand, Grand Trunk conductor, was killed as his caboose was struck by an automobile driven by Mont Butler, 55, of Grand Rapids. Tribbey was standing on the caboose step watched a circle of flickering lights from the flotilla of salvage craft about three miles off Chesil Beach.

Sister Ship Lost

West Bay—which locally has the sinister name of Dead Man's Bay—is the area where the search was conducted. It has an evil reputation owing to many wrecks.

The submarine went down at 10:30 a. m. in routine practice exercises. Sailors dashed out of Portland's movie theaters a few hours later, under orders cancelling their shore leave and rushing to their ships.

The M-2, a sister ship of the M-1 which was lost in a collision in November, 1925, with a loss of 65 lives, has been popular in the British navy as a "fine diving ship."

A small airplane was in a watertight hangar in the submarine when she sank.

Lieutenant Commander J. D. M. Leathes was listed in the last navy roster as commander of the M-2, whose home port is Portsmouth. It was not known just how many were aboard when she took the dive, but her normal complement is six officers and 48 men.

Wives, mothers and sweethearts of the submarine crew, the majority of whom came from Portsmouth or Portland, hoped the vessel might be repairing a mechanical defect and would emerge unscathed. But the strain began to show on their faces as the hours went by and some of them broke down in tears.

An official at headquarters of the commander-in-chief at Portsmouth said the M-2 was engaged in routine exercises when she disappeared. The sea was calm, but there was a fog.

The M-2 is equipped with the latest life-saving devices, he pointed out. Admiralty quarters in London said the ship's wireless might have failed, but even in that case she should have returned to port long ago.

While admiralty officials saw no reason to abandon hope, they said it would be idle to suggest there were not grounds for the gravest misgivings.

U. S. STEEL CUTS
DIVIDEND RATEDirectors Decide to Pay
50 Cents a Share Despite
1931 Loss

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Directors of the United States Steel corporation, chairmaned by J. P. Morgan, looked back over 1931, then forward into 1932 today, and decided that the future was hopeful enough to justify dipping into surplus to the extent of $10,656,616 to maintain dividend disbursements.

This world's largest steel maker ran far into the red in the final months of 1931, but directors ordered a disbursement of 50 cents a share on the common stock, as reduced from the $1 payments in the two previous quarters. The regular quarterly payment of $1.75 per share of preferred stock was directed.

The books showed a deficit of $4,376,798 for the last quarter of the year, which was met from surplus, along with the dividend payments, making a reduction from surplus of $15,033,414, the largest for any quarter in the corporation's history.

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 26 (AP)—Death won today in a race with the air mail bringing a precious quantity of cortin to fight off an attack of Addison's disease suffered by Dr. E. Franc Morrill, 65, supreme medical director of the Royal Neighbors of America. Dr. Morrill died at 1:30 p. m. just a short time before a supply of the newly-discovered preparation arrived from New York.

FIRES WILDLY

LANSING BANKONE MAN FATALLY
WOUNDED IN SCRIMMAGE

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—A once wealthy man driven insane by business reverses fatally wounded one patron and inflicted less serious wounds on four others in the lobby of the Capital National bank this afternoon. Then he re-loaded his pistol, placed the muzzle in his mouth and killed himself.

B. W. Nichols, 29, assistant cashier of the Olds Motor Works, one of the five persons wounded by D. J. Mead, 53-year-old bachelor, died late tonight.

The man, D. J. Mead, 52, bachelor, and member of a one time wealthy Lansing family, had been in the bank for about 10 minutes before he was whipped out his pistol and began firing. "This town has given me a dirty deal," he shouted. "Where's the 'big shot'?"

One of the men injured is in serious condition.

He is Albert Elssesser, executive vice president of the bank, shot through the right shoulder and right side. The others injured were David Timmons, a bank guard, John Lilley and Lucille Duncan, depositors. Timmons was hit in the hand and a bullet grazed his ribs. Lilley was shot in the neck, but his condition was reported as not critical.

Turns Gun On Self

It was shortly before closing time when Mead entered the bank. He mingled for a while with the patrons and then suddenly drew his pistol and began firing wildly. Elssesser was shot as he came running from his office. Timmons opened fire on Mead, but fell himself after two of his bullets had struck Mead, inflicting slight flesh wounds.

Mead then crossed to one side of the room, reloaded his weapon and turned it upon himself. In all he fired eight shots before ending his life.

Police disclosed today that three weeks ago Mead had threatened to shoot officials of another Lansing bank and that a guard had been posted at that institution since then.

Mead's family at one time owned a theater building and other real estate here. He had lived up until about a month ago when he moved to Detroit. He came here from Detroit this morning.

In Mead's pocket was a note instructing that E. H. Mead of Harbor Springs, Mich., and B. C. Mead of San Antonio, Texas, be notified in the event of his death.

Sale of collateral on an overdue note given the City National Bank, recently absorbed by the Capital National, was given as the probable motive for Mead's actions by John W. Haarer, who was president of the City National.

Haarer said the sale of collateral was years ago, but that as recently as three months ago Mead quarrel with the officers about the transaction, threatening to "get" them. A cash balance remained after the sale, Haarer said, but Mead did not collect it until last fall.

Aged Couple Are
Slain In Sleep

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26 (AP)—An aged couple slain in their sleep were the innocent victims today of a vice war which had taken ten lives within recent months.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Hungerford, each about 75 years old, were killed by a bomb which destroyed the Italian Villa Cafe above which was their apartment. The bomb, apparently a time mechanism planted earlier in the evening, exploded just before dawn. It demolished the ground floor, occupied by a cabaret owned by Paul Termine and Sam Vizzini, and set fire to the second story. The Hungerfords died in the blast but other occupants escaped with only slight injuries. Firemen halted the blaze after a four-hour fight.

Labor Unions
Undecided On Rail Pay Cut

Chicago, Jan. 26 (AP)—The vote of railway unions and brotherhoods on a ten per cent wage reduction progressed slowly today.

After a day and a half of discussion in their own groups and a week and a half of negotiations with rail presidents, more than half of the labor groups had not made up their minds whether to accept or reject the proposal of a voluntary cut.

Sunday night the unions were given the final reply of the railroad presidents to their unemployment program, granting some concessions and refusing others. Last night 10 of the 21 unions and brotherhoods reported they had come to a decision, which was not made public, but this afternoon another check showed the other 11 still undecided.

Some Discouragement

David R. Robertson, leader of the labor forces, said there was a great deal of discouragement among the union men because the managements had gone no further than to promise to stabilize employment "as conditions may justify."

The position of labor has been that if rail workers give up some $215,000,000 out of their pay envelopes, a large share of that should go to employing more men. Robertson said some of the men felt the presidents could have made more definite assurances of the amount of labor they would require during the next year.

There appeared to be no disposition today to hurry the union vote, either on the part of the labor executives or the railroad presidents, who had asked for the reduction as an "essential step" to the improvement of railway credit and a general revival of business.

CYR DEMANDS
KING VACATEIndicates Ouster Suit
Will Be Filed in Louisiana

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 26 (AP)—Formal demand was made today on Alvin O. King to vacate the governor's office by Dr. Paul N. Cyr, who claims he is the legal governor of Louisiana.

The demand was made in a letter sent to the executive mansion where King was installed by Huey P. Long when he left the governorship to enter the United States senate.

The letter was sent after Cyr had taken the oath of governor before a deputy clerk of the district court in the state capital.

Later Charles T. Wortham, attorney for Cyr, took the certificate of oath to the office of the secretary of state and attempted to have it filed, but he was told by Assistant Secretary R. H. Flower that it could not be accepted.

Tampering Of Jury
To Be Investigated

Detroit, Jan. 26 (AP)—A grand jury investigation of George Kolowich's alleged activities in attempting to influence the jury which heard his trial on a charge of embezzlement from the State Bank of America, of Hamtramck, of which he was president, was promised today by Assistant Prosecutor Lloyd A. Loomis.

Kolowich was recently convicted of embezzlement of $80,000 from the bank. The alleged jury tampering occurred in connection with an earlier trial on a similar charge, in which the jury disagreed.

279 Persons Were
Kidnaped Last Year

St. Louis, Jan. 26 (AP)—A nationwide survey of the extent of kidnapers' activities today revealed that at least 279 persons were kidnaped in 28 states during 1931.

The survey was made by Chief of Police Joseph Gerk of St. Louis. He received replies from 501 cities of 948 questionnaires sent police in principal cities of the country.

Illinois reported the greatest number of kidnappings, with 49 for the year. Ohio was next with 34; California, third with 28; Michigan, fourth, 26; Indiana, fifth, 20; New York, sixth, 17; Massachusetts, seventh, 16; and Missouri eighth, 11.

BAKER STATES OPPOSITION TO
LEAGUE PLANKNOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENCY. HE DECLARES

BY RAYMOND CROWLEY
New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—Opposition to a League of Nations plank in the 1932 Democratic platform came unexpectedly from Newton D. Baker today in a statement which also voiced his belief in eventual participation in the league by the United States.

The declaration of Baker, secretary of war in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson, staunch league advocate, and a presidential possibility himself, was the focal point in a day crowded with political developments.

While Mr. Baker was preparing his statement and sailing away with his wife for a brief vacation in Mexico City, friends of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, another limb on the presidential timber tree, were hearing with gratification of a statement by Josephus Daniels, who was Mr. Wilson's secretary of the navy.

Baker Not Candidate

Mr. Daniels told the Atlanta Journal that "the progressives throughout the country, regardless of political affiliation, will vote the Democratic ticket if the party nominates a man whose progressive tendencies are shown by his political record."

"Franklin Roosevelt," Mr. Daniels declared, "is such a man."

Meanwhile, former Governor Alfred E. Smith, who carried the banner for the party in 1928 and whose unrevealed attitude this year is causing supporters of Mr. Roosevelt and others no end of cogitation, was busily conferring with Robert H. Jackson of New Hampshire, the new secretary of the Democratic national committee. Committee business and the general political situation were the topics of their talk, they said.

Mr. Baker, before departing, said it was "very generous" and "very nice" for people to talk him up for the presidency, but to a direct question as to whether he was a candidate, he said:

"No."

Just before the reporters finished their cross-fire of questions, one of them shot out:

"Do you think prohibition is the big issue, this year?"

"Positively not," said Mr. Baker.

"I would not ask the United States into the league if I had the power to do so until there is an informed and convinced majority sentiment in favor of that action in the United States," said his statement on the league.

"I am not in favor of a plank in the Democratic national platform urging our joining the league. I think it would be a great mistake to make a partisan issue of the matter."

"I think we will go into the league some day, and I think we ought to. But I don't think we should take that action until the people of the United States have had a chance to see the league in action and to study its action enough to be fully satisfied as to the wisdom of such a course."

BULLETIN

London, Jan. 27 (Wednesday) (AP)—A dispatch to the London Daily Herald from Shanghai today said 2,000 United States marines have been posted in the international settlement in expectation that the Japanese will occupy vantage points in the city later today and drive hordes of refugees into the international quarter.

The dispatch said the Chinese mayor will reply to the Japanese during the day, agreeing to all their demands, but that an occupation of some points is expected, nevertheless. The defense force of the international quarter has been mobilized, it said.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 26 (AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, on trial for murder, was described today by witnesses as of dual personality, a mental incompetent, suffering from hallucinations incapable of realizing murder's gravity, "if she did it," and as a jealous killer.

Her 66-year-old mother, lips tremble and eyes tear dimmed did all that she may that her daughter might be sent to an asylum, as a lesser evil than the gallows, for the slaying of Agnes Anne Lerol.

The ranks of former acquaintances and associates of the accused were split in two as the time arrived for defense counsel to prove the slim, pale woman "was so insane that she, if she did this act, could not have known the quality of it."

Co-workers at the clinic where both Mrs. Judd and Mrs. Lerol were employed, laid the foundation for the testimony of Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, the mother, that her daughter from childhood had displayed "mother hallucinations," although she never had a child.

Mrs. Dolly Gann
Supports Hoover

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 26 (AP)—Declaring no ship should change captains in the midst of a hurricane, Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, in an address here today urged re-election of President Hoover as "more to be desired than any one thing in the coming campaign."

As a result of "constructive measures" the president has taken, she said, "the great masses of the people have never discovered that they were in hard times and have gone about their mirths and their employments without even having found it necessary to limit in any degree their standards of living."

To see his "strong, inspiring and steady influence withdrawn from international councils" she declared "would be an immeasurable calamity not only for our country but to the whole world."

Hindu Chief Faces
Loss Of His Throne

Srinagar, India, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Maharajah of Kashmir was again threatened tonight with the loss of his throne.

Twelve thousand fanatical Moslems, strongly armed, were reported to be streaming north out of the Punjab with the intention of launching a concentrated attack on this capital and gaining control of the only predominantly Mohammedan state in India ruled by a Hindu.

The Maharajah, whose proper name is Sir Hari Singh, has appealed for protection and British and native troops were being hurried across mountain passes to save his "Paradise on Earth" from the designs of most of its own people.

Fourteen villages in the Reasi district, near the Punjab border, already have been sacked by the rebels and their inhabitants—mostly Hindus—have been terrorized. Many buildings have been burned to the ground and the situation was said to be grave.

BY R. H. HIPPELHEUSER
Chicago, Jan. 26 (AP)—William Wrigley, Jr., Chicago capitalist and sportsman, died early today in his winter home at Phoenix, Arizona, and the world lost its czar of chewing gum. He was 79 years old.

On his penny sticks of confection, Wrigley with novel advertising built a fortune estimated by associates at around $150,000,000.

Wrigley's illness had been known here for several weeks. He had long been a sufferer from acute indigestion. This affected his heart and brought death by paralysis.

Baseball, coal mining, transportation, the motion picture industry, ranching and hotels were numbered among the enterprises developed by Wrigley.

His hobby, baseball, was in itself one of the biggest of businesses. After buying the Chicago Cubs of the National league in 1924, Wrigley spent more than $6,000,000 in strengthening the team. Yet he was never to realize his dream—a world's series championship pennant flying in his Cubs park.

Heavy Advertiser

Just north of the Boulevard bridge stands Wrigley's own monument, an elaborate edifice of white terra cotta that bears his prophetic of Chicago's business growth—for it was the first large office structure built north of the Chicago River outside the loop.

Few businesses used advertising as widely as did Wrigley. The arrow headed elve adorning his gum packages were known the world over. Approximately $100,000,000 was spent by Wrigley up to 1931 for advertising his wares.

Wrigley once told his son: "No matter what the condition of business, never stop advertising."

Three years ago, the capitalist interested himself in the resort qualities of Arizona. He operated the Arizona Biltmore and owned a 40-room home near Phoenix.

In this home he died. His widow, the son, and Mrs. James R. Ofield, only daughter, were with him.

Wrigley attended but few social functions. One of the last of these was the debut of his granddaughter, Betty Ofield.

Despite all his wealth, Wrigley had a simple philosophy and outlook. He once said:

"What I have accomplished has been done because the work has kept me happy. And I've enjoyed every moment of the battle. I'm not much more successful than the average person. I have more money, but I've only three suits of clothes, a place to sleep, three

SENATOR GLASS SCORES HYDE

Likens Cabinet Officer to "Turniphead" in Bitter Speech

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—Senator Glass today accused Secretary Hyde of "culpable pettifoggery" and again disputed the cabinet officer's claim that the Wilson administration's post-Armistice loans to Europe were illegal.

The Virginia Democrat, who as secretary of the treasury under Woodrow Wilson administered some of the two billions in loans to the allies quoted from the language of the Liberty loan and Victory loan acts to prove there was authority for the advances.

Before an attentive chamber in which no response was made to his argument, Glass concluded, amid laughter, by likening the secretary of agriculture to a "turniphead."

Quoting Henry Jones, he quoted the reasons given by the late Henry Arthur Jones, of Great Britain for not pursuing an argument with H. G. Wells. In that statement by Wells, quoted by Glass, were the words:

"The round head wagged and shook with obstinate denial of fact and argument. I paused for a moment and looked at that round wagging head—by a sudden illumination I became aware that it was not a head at all, but a turnip, a veritable turnip placed on top of his neck and shoulders."

The senator added: "As old Bishop John Early of Virginia used to say, the senate 'may note the phraseology and mark the application.'"

Hyde's charge was made in a recent address. Last week Glass denied the accusation in a senate speech and the secretary of agriculture replied with a statement asserting in part that the treasury had unsuccessfully sought authority from congress to make the loans in question.

Reserve Bank Sees Upturn In Business

Detroit, Jan. 26 (AP)—The federal reserve bank of Chicago reported today that it found employment and manufacturing activity on the increase in the seventh federal reserve district as 1931 drew to a close.

December 15, 1931, saw 626,532 men at work in 2,157 factories in the district, their aggregate earnings being $15,078,000. This was an increase of 2.3 percent in employment and 1.9 in payrolls. Of the 14 manufacturing groups listed the automotive group with an employment increase of 14.3 percent led the list.

Ohio Politicians Accused Of Bribery

that a second cousin of the defendant died in an insane asylum at Peoria, Ill., and another's mentality "seemed to collapse."

Two others, one a surprise state witness, testified Mrs. Judd talked of "boy friends," jealousies, suspicions and deceptions.

County Attorney Lloyd C. Andrews rested his case on these, and the defense immediately moved for a directed verdict on grounds of "insufficient evidence to warrant or sustain a conviction." Judge Howard C. Speakman overruled it.

Mrs. Judd, under indictment also for slaying last October of Hedvig Samuelson, tubercular convalescent friend of herself and Mrs. Lerol, strode imperiously from the courtroom during a recess, a matron in tow, to hurl bitter recriminations at Sheriff J. R. McFadden, her legal custodian.

"You want to hang me!" she cried, her voice rising. "You've been telling witnesses what they should say!"

She made two excursions into the corridor, her long, clinging dress whipping about her slender form, until the sheriff sought refuge in the judge's chambers, while the worried, trailing matron quivered.

The enigmatic spirits of the accused woman had been affected visibly by the spectacle of her mother on the stand, fighting tremendously through the technicalities of the law to save her from the noose.

A few minutes after her outburst, however, she tossed back her semi-blond curls in hearty laughter as she chatted with another man who may be directed by law to hold her in custody if her counsel's plans do not miscarry—Dr. George W. Stephens, superintendent of the Arizona hospital for insane, a defense alienist.

650 Nationalists In India Arrested

Bombay, India, Jan. 26 (AP)—About 650 nationalists in various parts of the country were interned and sentenced today for celebrating the third anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi's declaration of independence for India.

Police broke up a disorderly mob in Bombay, using their sticks with such effect that at least 59 nationalists were badly enough injured to require hospital treatment.

At several points in the city the demonstrators built bonfires of British cloth and one such crowd, after being dispersed by charging police, reassembled and stoned a police station. They were fired on but no one was wounded.

In Calcutta 240 Gandhi followers were arrested, in New Delhi the total was 103 and in Bombay 80.

Chicago, Jan. 26 (AP)—The men who knew him best bade Eddie Stinson farewell today in a South Side mortuary.

From an American Legion Post of which the pioneer aviator was a member they marched to his bier and stood with bowed heads. Then two friends of Stinson made arrangements to take the body to Stinson's home at Dearborn, Mich., on a Michigan Central passenger train leaving Chicago at midnight.

Members of the Legion Post made up a coroner's jury which conducted an inquiry into his death in the crash of one of his latest model airplanes last night. They continued the inquiry until March 24.

On the jury were Captain W. S. Brock, "round-the-world" flier who used a plane designed by Stinson. Also there were George Fisher, World War flier, Lieut. Col. P. G. Kemp, Captain B. B. Tyane, and Daniel A. Carey, all friends of Stinson.

The most detailed story of the crash which cost Stinson's life after he had flown more than 1,500,000 miles without a serious accident was told by Fred M. Gillies, one of the three men with him at the time.

"We left municipal airport at dusk last night," Gillies related, "and started back toward Wayne, Mich. I had the stick, and a short way out over Lake Michigan the plane began to spitter. Both Eddie and I knew the motor wasn't getting gas."

"Eddie said 'It looks like the lake for us.' We didn't want to land in the water, though, because some of us surely would have been killed. I thought of the Jackson Park golf course nearby, yelled to Eddie and then pointed it out. He took the stick and started back."

"A hundred feet from the ground I saw a flagpole right near us. I shouted a warning to Eddie and he yelled back 'Where is it?' Just then we crashed into it."

Stinson died early today in Illinois Central hospital. He had suffered a crushed chest and internal injuries in the crash.

Plans to Prove Miller Not Heir

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Grace Hazard Brown, seeking to prove that Howard Miller is not a nephew of the late Miss Rachael Arvilla Parker under whose will he is sole legatee of her $100,000 estate, asked today that the testatrix' letters and diaries be made available to her.

Mrs. Hazard's motion, filed in circuit court, asked that Glenard Bristol, of Battle Creek, executor of the will, be ordered to deposit letters written by Miss Parker to Mrs. Mollie Parker and diaries kept by Miss Parker from 1902 until her death, with the clerk of the court here.

SCHOOL DAY ROMANCE

Boston, Sixty-five years ago Joseph W. Chase and Mrs. Anne Davis Waite were school sweethearts. Both married other loves, however, and it wasn't until just recently that the romance started in childhood was culminated in marriage. Chase's wife died last year, and Mrs. Waite has been a widow for some time. Chase is 75 and his bride 73.

The great flood is estimated to have occurred in 2348 B. C.

HAS TEMPER

Tony Treville (above), hostess in a New York dance hall, resented the "high hat" manner of Ellen Kossiter, another hostess, and immediately there was trouble. Tony and Ellen are impersonal characters in the new serial, "The Dime-A-Dance Girl," which begins February 4 in the Daily Press.

CYR DEMANDS KING VACATE

cepted as the oath of King already was on file.

Plans Ouster Suit

Cyr followed the same procedure he adopted four months ago when he took the governor's oath in Schenectady and sent Huey Long a letter demanding that he surrender the governor's office. Long refused in a return letter and Cyr then filed suit in the district court, which later threw it out, the dismissal being sustained by the state supreme court.

At the executive mansion King said he would not have anything to say until he received the letter tomorrow.

Cyr's counsel indicated an on-er suit would be filed against King probably in the court at Lake Charles, King's domicile.

Cyr came to Baton Rouge by train from New Orleans alone and without baggage and was taken to his hotel in the automobile of a newspaperman. He took the excitement out of his trip by sending word ahead that he was not planning to use force in his fight to get the governor's chair.

But when he arrived his trail was taken up by under-cover administration agents, who dogged his steps during his stay in Baton Rouge and the armed guards at the state offices became more alert.

Communist Riots Continue In Spain

Madrid, Jan. 26 (AP)—Spain's revolutionary strikes, apparently divided today, but disorders continued with three persons reported killed and three wounded.

Two civil guards and a judge were killed in a battle between guards and strikers at Sollano, dispatches said, after extremists had proclaimed the town under communist control and raised the red flag.

A priest was shot and wounded at Sollano when extremists attempted to burn his church. Their attempt failed, but they ransacked the city hall and burned municipal records until troops took possession of the town.

Demands Relief for Taxes On Property

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—The Michigan State Association of Supervisors was urged to consider income and sales taxes as possible sources of relief for real property, in the opening session of a three-day convention here today. Allen W. Baker, of Coloma, president of the organization, declared the time has come when assessing officers and legislative bodies must endeavor to shift the tax burden.

The supervisors spent most of the day discussing county welfare relief and mothers' pensions. Corporal Ray Sullivan, of the state police, explained the methods employed to promote cooperation with local peace officers. Probate Judge Fred Wertman, of Genesee county, urged fair administration of the mothers' pension act.

Father Consents To Brain Operation

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—The father of 13-month-old Diane Moore, whose only chance to escape idiocy is a dangerous surgical operation, wired the baby's mother today from Detroit, after a silence of more than a year.

"Success to your decision," the message said. "Take the chance. Letter following."

Mrs. Lillian Moore, the 19-year-old mother, said she had not heard from her husband, John Moore, since December, 1930, when he wrote he was disappointed his child was a daughter instead of a son, and that he planned to "get a divorce and another woman."

The baby was taken to the neurological center of the medical center for X-ray tests which were to aid in determining whether there is enough brain matter to permit a normal development, in case the delicate operation of opening the locked skull fissures is successful.

NEW REVENUES BEING SOUGHT

Tax on Oil Imports Considered Seriously by House Group

BY CECIL B. DICKSON

Washington, Jan. 26 (AP)—A search for new and fruitful sources of revenue to replenish the treasury's coffers has led the Democratic-controlled house ways and means committee to serious consideration of taxes on oil imports, gasoline, electric energy and household gas.

The group decided to inquire into the possibilities of such levies after hearing for three weeks the testimony of witnesses fearing hardships to their business if the administration's $200,000,000 tax increase program is approved.

Despite certain increases in income, surtaxes and inheritance taxes, virtually agreed upon, the committee agreed that further additional revenue is needed to balance the budget and meet a deficit that threatens to reach two billion dollars before the end of the fiscal year.

Would Tax Buses

Today the treasury reported that at the close of business January 23, collections from all sources this fiscal year totaled $1,221,738,382 all expenditures totaled $2,725,314,832. Thus the deficit had passed the billion and half mark, and stood at $1,503,576,450.

The same group of independent oil producers led by Wirt Franklin, of Tulsa, Okla., who have failed time and again to obtain a tariff or an embargo on foreign petroleum, tomorrow will have an opportunity to sponsor an excise tax of about 2 1/2 cents a gallon, or $1 a barrel on foreign oil, with a compensatory tax on imported oil products.

During the hearings today, a group led by Representative Boland (D., Penna.), advocated a three-cent tax a mile on motor buses and trucks. He said they had reduced the business of railroads and employment.

Letter Reveals Bombing Plot In Alabama Capitol

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 26 (AP)—A plot to bomb Alabama's historic capitol, revealed in a letter to a state official, caused guards to be posted at the state house today, the Associated Press was authoritatively informed.

The official, who wished his name withheld, said the letter was sent to John Brandon, state auditor, by a man in Birmingham who said he overheard four men in a depot there plotting the bombing.

The bombing, the official quoted the letter as saying, was set for either today or tomorrow and had as its intended victims Governor R. M. Miller, William F. Fagin, director of the state board of administration, John Peach, legal advisor to the governor, and Roy Nolan, assistant director of the state convict department.

The state auditor was said to have delivered the letter immediately to Governor Miller, and the guard, consisting of more than a dozen plainclothesmen from the Montgomery police department and Kilby prison, was stationed about the capitol.

Star Witness Ill, Delay Examination

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—Examination of Carl L. Skidmore, local oil executive, on a charge of negligent homicide, was adjourned three weeks today in justice court because of the illness of Mrs. Mae Gibbons, star witness for the state.

Skidmore is accused of negligence in connection with the death in an automobile accident of Miss Iva Manross, dry goods clerk, December 2. A doctor testified today that Mrs. Gibbons, injured in the same accident, will not be able to leave her room for three weeks.

Widow Of Murdered Sheriff Defeated

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Maude Hendrix, widow of Sheriff Marcel Hendrix, who was one of six officers killed by the two Young brothers, January 2, was defeated today in her race to fill the unexpired term of her husband.

Scott Curtis, a constable, was elected as sheriff, to serve until December 31. He won by a majority of 34 votes.

West Point was first occupied as a military post Jan. 20, 1778.

U. S. STEEL CUTS DIVIDEND RATE

continues serving warning that "continuance of dividends does depend upon an improvement in the corporation's volume of business and earnings."

Reduction Expected
Some weeks ago, when gloom was dark in the financial district, Wall Street had been inclined to look for cessation of common dividends by the largest steel maker.

More recently, in some more optimistic financial quarters, however, it was felt that as a result of the improvement in business sentiment since the turn of the year, another $1 payment might be ordered.

But more conservative quarters had felt that 50 cents was about the best that could be expected. The 50-cent quarterly payment was the smallest since 1915, in which year the corporation temporarily discontinued common disbursements, as a result of the unsettledness of the oil break of the World War.

While the annual statement of the corporation has not been issued, annual figures compiled from the quarterly statements indicated that the maintenance of dividends for 1931 paid a deficit of $49,236,882, as against a surplus of $18,836,097 after dividend payments for 1930.

The corporation's ability to maintain disbursements to stockholders reflects the huge cash reserves which it has been able to pile up as a result of conservative dividend payments in its boom years. At the end of 1930, the corporation reported cash or equivalent exceeding $197,000,000, so a deficit of nearly $50,000,000 for 1931 should leave the cash item well above the $100,000,000 minimum which the management is understood to believe it should maintain. What the actual cash item was at the close of 1931, however, will not be known until the annual statement is published.

Notorious Convicts Escape from Prison

Milledgeville, Ga., Jan. 26 (AP)—Aubrey Smith, Abe Powers and Roy Gardner, three notorious convicts, escaped from the state prison today and fled with an expensive limousine in which they ran down and killed a trusty who sought to halt them.

The prisoner killed was John S. Williams, life term slayer, who operated a "murder farm" near Milledgeville about ten years ago on which three negroes, the state charged, were slain.

Escape of the three brought to the prison a state of excitement and have fled the prison in the past week. Leland Harvey and Jack Martin, prison pals of Smith, got out of the death cell Friday.

The three broke out of a portable steel cage in the tuberculosis ward, stole the sedan of the prison physician and whizzed past a posse stationed on the outskirts of town. It was here that they ran down Williams, deliberately, guards said.

Often had to lie down

"SIX years ago I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains and cramps and it helped wonderfully."

"After my children were born, I tried to keep up, but I often had to lie down. I started taking the Vegetable Compound again to build me up."

"Since taking it, I feel fine and look well. The Vegetable Compound is a good medicine. If any woman writes to me, I will answer her." Mrs. Ina Peterson, Box 48, St. George Road, Thomaston, Maine.

EARNINGS

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—General Motors corporation today reported that subject to preliminary audit, net earnings for 1931 amounted to $96,858,761, as reduced from $153,766,247 for the previous year.

This was equivalent to $2.01 per share of common stock after payment of preferred dividends, as against $3.22 per common share in 1930. Dividends are currently at the basis of $3 a share annually.

Despite the lower earnings, however, the corporation reported a marked strengthening of its cash position. Preliminary estimates of cash, U. S. government and other marketable securities as of December 31, indicated $204,835,000, as swollen from $175,037,071 the year previous.

OBITUARY

OLIVER LECLAIR

Oliver LeClair, father of Mrs. Charles LeRoy, who had lived in Ishpeming for four years, died in the Ishpeming hospital, where he had been a patient two weeks. Mr. LeClair was 75 years old and was born at Two Rivers, Wis. He spent most of his life in Oconto and Marinette counties in Wisconsin and was a sawmill worker. He retired from active service six years ago. He was a veteran member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Besides his daughter, Mr. LeClair leaves his widow and two sons, Chester, of Manitowish, Wis., and Albert, of Port Angeles, Wash.; a sister, Mrs. Julia Craite, of Racine, Wis., and six grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. LeClair celebrated their golden wedding anniversary September 6, 1930.

HENRY JASPER, SR.

Funeral services will be held this morning at nine o'clock at St. Bruno's church in Nadeau for Henry Jasper, sr., who died at his home in Gourley Township Sunday afternoon after an illness of one week. Rev. Fr. F. Sperline will be the celebrant at the requiem high mass and will conduct the services at the grave in Nadeau cemetery where burial will be made in the family lot.

MRS. FRED J. OLIVER

Mrs. Fred J. Oliver, 514 East B street, one of Iron Mountain's most prominent women, died Sunday morning at General hospital following a week's illness. Funeral services were held Tuesday.

Born on May 29, 1888, at Ishpeming, Mich., Mrs. Oliver was educated in the schools of that city and after completing her high school course entered the Marquette normal school. After graduating from that institution she taught school in Ishpeming and later came to Iron Mountain, being employed for four years as supervisor of the primary department in the schools.

H. B. CHURCHILL

Marquette—Following a protracted illness death came to H. B. Churchill, familiarly known as "Ken," Saturday evening at the home of his brother, L. M. Churchill, with whom he made his home. He was 67 years old, born in Ypsilanti, Mich., and was unmarried.

Mr. Churchill resided at Escanaba for years, coming to Marquette forty years ago, since which time residence had been made here. His forebears were early day residents of Wisconsin, settling in the state in 1845. His paternal grandfather, Joseph T. Churchill, at one time owned the plat now used as the Fox Howard cemetery, now a portion of the city of Green Bay, the ground having been bought from him for the cemetery purposes. The funeral was held Tuesday.

WILBUR CARLIER

De Pere—An hour before he would have quit work for the week and started for a Sunday visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carlrier, Wilbur Carlrier, 28, an employee of the Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul and Pacific railroad at Menasha was fatally injured near the freight warehouse in that city.

Mr. Carlrier, who had gone to work for the Milwaukee road only a few months ago at Menasha, was unmarried. He is survived by his parents, one brother, E. J. Carlrier, Manitowish, and four sisters, Mrs. A. T. Fleury, Marquette, Mich.; Mrs. Harry Jacobson, Green Bay, Marie Carlrier and Mrs. Wilbur Janquart, DePere. His occupation was that of warehouse man.

MRS. HENRY SISCHO

The body of Mrs. Henry Sischo of Ensign, will be taken from the Anderson Funeral Home direct to the Lutheran church at Waukegan, Ill., where, on Wednesday, the funeral services will be held. The funeral services will be held Thursday morning at nine o'clock at St. Anne's church with Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. G. Jacques as celebrant at the requiem high mass. Burial will be in the family lot at St. Anne's cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Zane DeMers and daughter Adelaide and Mr. and Mrs. Francis DeMers, all of Waukegan, Ill., have arrived to attend the funeral services. P. W. Myrick of Chicago, an uncle of the deceased, is expected to arrive this morning. This evening at 8 o'clock, Msgr. Jacques and friends of the family will assemble at the home to recite the rosary in union.

The pallbearers, chosen among the close friends of the family, are M. J. Lang, Med Beaudoin, Edwin Hendrickson, Emil Perow, William Moras and Charles P. Johnson.

Green Bay Legion Job Plan Praised

Indianapolis, Ind.—Henry L. Stevens, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, has received a letter from a D. A. V. commander expressing appreciation for work done by the Legion in Green Bay, Wis., in creating jobs for the unemployed. The letter was from Joseph H. Deuster, commander of the Green Bay chapter of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The letter follows:

"Russell Leitch, Chapter 3, Green Bay Disabled Veterans of the World War, wish to direct your attention to the splendid work done by the Sullivan Post 11, Green Bay American Legion, in their efforts to solve the unemployment problem here. The greater majority of the 1,057 placements made by the employment bureau here in December were made through the Man-A-Block drive conducted by the Legion. Prior to this year the greatest number placed in Decem-

Spelling Bee Notes

Among schools which will again participate in the Escanaba Daily Press spelling bee are the Central and Young's of Perkins, and the Bungalow and Central of Stonington.

Seventy-five pupils of grades three to eight in the Perkins Central school have been entered. Jane Gibbs, who last year as a seventh grader captured the school event and competed for the grand championship, is again entered and will make a bid for higher honors. Other winners in the school contest in 1931 competed as eighth graders and are no longer eligible.

Central entries according to grades: Third-Fourth—Clarence Martin, Gilbert Sharkey, George Fournier, Beatrice Beauchamp, Edward Brault, Margaret Elquist, Emmet Forsberg, Bertha Fournier, Evelyn Kinnart, Leonard Krouth, Ferdinand Lancour, William Ledvina, Eugenia Martin, Felix Miljour, Eileen Norden, Shirley Norden, Edsel Selandor, Elizabeth Verslippe and Raymond Maki.

Woman's Club Votes Approval of Escanaba Park Improvement

Unqualified approval of the proposed project of city beautification and building of small parks and playgrounds as an advanced solution of the unemployment problem in Escanaba was expressed Tuesday by the Civic Committee of the Escanaba Woman's club, through its chairman, Mrs. J. J. Cox.

In a statement issued Tuesday, the committee describes the project as one of the finest benefits possible to give an entire community and as one of the most intelligent and far-seeing methods of dealing with the present conditions.

Benefits Whole Community "The Civic committee would like to take this opportunity of expressing its satisfaction with the proposed park and playground project."

Students at Rock Form Glee Club

Rock, Mich., Jan. 26 (Special) Rock high school students will have the opportunity of exercising their vocal talent with the organization of a boys' and a girls' glee club.

The glee clubs were organized last week under the direction of Misses Grace Williams and Eleanor Carlson, faculty members. Try outs were held and the leaders were very pleased, as well as surprised, at the unusually large number of good prospects.

Twenty-three boys and twenty-three girls were picked after the try-outs and instruction will begin this week. It is expected that these two organizations will furnish entertainment at various school functions before the year is over.

Those who were picked at the try-outs are: Girls—Betty Gibbs, Irma Leppanen, Irene Kulki, Raula Hakanen, Pearl Kaukola, Mary Gibbs, Helmi Jokinen, Ges. Jane Molloy, Ina Kamlun, Vivian Harju, Lillie Ruusi, Aune Johnson, Vivian Utt, Elma Lauri, Betty Guntley, Tuova Ryttil, Lea Johnson, Hazel Stewart, Sylvia Smith, Elsa Vanden Bussche and Helvie Lampinen.

Boys—Albert and Arnold Sayen, Frank Besaw, Hildner Osterberg, John Selin, William Johnson, Howard Brukar, Russell Carlson, Ensis Mustonen, Henry Norman, Jack McCracken, Leo Kulki, Norman Sjolund, Lloyd Huff, Robert Bailey, Oliver and Walfrid Latvala, Toivo Lauri, Toivo Maki, Emil Seppala, Arthur Johnson, Bernard Larson and Runar Sjolund.

FRATERNAL

Knights of Pythias

The annual election of officers of Escanaba Lodge No. 98, Knights of Pythias, will be held at the regular meeting tonight at 8 o'clock, at the Castle Hall. A suitable entertainment has been arranged which will follow the regular business of the lodge and the election of officers for the ensuing year. Letters were sent to all of the members and it is expected to be an unusually large gathering. Lunch and refreshments will be served after the meeting.

Alpha Nu Initiates Two Peninsula Men

Two Upper Peninsula students, Wheaton Strom, Escanaba, and Walter Morrison, Manistowish, were initiated recently as members of Alpha Nu, men's literary forensic society, at the University of Michigan.

A class of 12 new members were taken into the society at a banquet at which President Ruthven and Lyle Elserman, national president of Kappa Phi Sigma, were the speakers.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

William Boyd, that "double-dyed" deceiver of the film plots, is back in his celluloid element again in "The False Madonna," Paramount romance-drama of modern life which comes to the Delft Theatre today.

Boyd's most memorable characterizations have been those of "bad men." He was Gary Cooper's antagonist in "The Spoilers," and tried to spoil the romance of Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in "Gun Smoke." In "The Gang Buster" he tried to bust things up between Jack Oakie and Jean Arthur. In "The Road to Reno" he was the would-be nemesis of Buddy Rogers and Peggy Shannon.

In "The False Madonna," Boyd appears as the master-mind of a gang of crooks who operate in three continents, mulcting their victims of millions of dollars. Kay Francis is seen as one of the gang, an erstwhile respectable society woman, beautiful, stylish, well-mannered. It is when Kay is sent out as the chief decoy in a scheme to return the missing mother to a youth who will inherit a vast fortune that Boyd's empire of crookedness falls about his head. For Kay balks at the deceptiveness of her errand, after she develops a motherly love for their youthful intended victim.

It is a fine role for Boyd. He plays it with strength and compelling conviction. "There is no need of evading the facts of present conditions. If we do not help the unemployed at the present time, we will surely have to take care of them later at a greater expense. The only way to eliminate unemployment is to give employment. The city management, the various clubs and organizations are to be congratulated on the manner in which they have taken care of the situation thus far—Escanaba may well be cited as an example for other cities to follow. But when organizations and individuals have exhausted their resources, then it will be necessary to feed, clothe and house those who are unable to do for themselves. What better way can be taken care of them than in a project which is going to benefit every resident of the community?"

"Where in the United States could a prettier little city be found than Escanaba during the past holiday season, with its decorations, its lights, its happy homes and the knowledge that everyone was cared for in every way possible? That is the spirit which has guided Escanaba's government which, back of the proposed project, is certain to take care of this situation as it has others in the past.

"CIVIC COMMITTEE. "ESCANABA WOMAN'S CLUB."

C. M. T. C. PERILED

IT IS reported that the army appropriation bill, which likely will be introduced in Congress this week, contains no funds for the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which have grown to have an extremely popular appeal for the youth of the nation.

Pacifists have taken advantage of the clamor for reduced governmental expenditures to attack the summer training camps. It is understood, if their efforts are successful, there will be no camp at Fort Brady in Sault Ste. Marie this coming summer.

About three hundred upper peninsula boys attended Fort Brady last summer, more than fifty being from Delta county. In fact, Delta county had the largest representation of all the counties, and already some of the boys have applied for admittance this year.

The need for economy in our federal government is generally recognized, but caution and good judgment must be exercised so that tax slashing is done wisely. As far as the public is concerned, it probably gets more material benefit from the C. M. T. C. than any other branch of the army department. These are primarily citizenship camps, intended to give a young man some experience in a field of service to the people and to stir his personal pride, especially in his physical well-being and his cooperative capacity, at an impressionable age.

Certainly, the Delta county boys who spent a month at Fort Brady last summer would like to see Congress use the paring knife somewhere else.

SONG RACKETS

OVER 3,000 arrests have been made in the country-wide campaign by the department of justice against peddlers, distributors and printers, which have been involved in what is known as the song sheet "racket".

The racket broke out in New York City about two and a half years when a small group placed peddlers on the streets, offering for sale song sheets containing the verses or choruses, or both, of approximately one hundred of the latest popular song hits. They were prosecuted under Section 24 of the United States copyright law, which makes it a misdemeanor for anyone to print, distribute or sell copyrighted books, papers, periodicals or music without the consent of the copyright owners.

Among the meanest rackets in the song sheet business, however, is that being perpetrated by dishonest music printers. From time to time, upper peninsula newspapers have published news stories concerning youths and also grownups, who had their songs accepted and put into music by some big city publisher. The novice song writer is made to believe that his song will be a big hit on Broadway and over the radio, and consequently is influenced to take his savings or borrow from friends and relatives to have the sheet music printed.

The song writer must handle the sale of his work himself, while the racketeer publisher makes a nice profit on the printing. In the homes of many gullible songsters can be found unwrapped bundles of song sheets he or she could not sell.

BUSES HAVE TOUGH TIME, TOO

MOTOR buses that have replaced street cars in the smaller cities of the country are also finding it difficult to make both ends meet, much of the trouble being due to the loss in traffic because of the competition of the private automobile. Since the public service company substituted buses for its street cars in Menominee about four years ago, it has been operating at a loss, and would be very willing to abandon the service. Buses are also having a hard time of it in Sault Ste. Marie. It is revealed in the following editorial appearing in the News:

"It begins to look as though those who declared the St. Mary's traction company had purchased too high priced buses for use as successors to the street cars, were not far from wrong. Just now the buses are not able to run except by a city subsidy of $250 monthly—and this despite the fact that the payroll has been reduced by hundreds of dollars a month under that of the street car operation.

"The warm weather which has been a blessing to the north country in most ways, has enabled private automobiles to continue as easily as during the summer months. Thus the expected winter revenue of the buses has not been forthcoming, and constantly, in spite of every possible economy, it has been necessary to apply the red ink to the accounts. Citizens simply will not use the buses except to their work at the plant of the Northwestern Leather company.

"The buses with the help of the taxpayer's $250 a month, will be able to continue for the winter months. But how will they be able to operate in the spring when this subsidy will be cut off? Every scheme that could be thought up by the traction company officials has been tried—use of weekly passes, cutting off virtually all office overhead, arranging suitable schedules, and renting the third bus for out of the city trips. These have failed to make profits. And it looks as though the end of the line is not far off.

"The heavy buses cost considerable to operate. They are not paid for yet—and revenues are not such that it is probable they will be paid for in several months to come. What the company officials will do next is problematical. It looks, though, that they will either have to get cheaper buses or discontinue service entirely. In which case the workers at the Algonquin plants will either have to get to and from work in private cars or walk, or the municipality will have to provide some sort of transportation. "Evil days have fallen upon railroads, street cars and, apparently, buses."

THE WOODEN INDIAN

THE man who popularized the wooden Indian as a cigar store insignia died in Pittsburgh the other day, at the age of 90; and the incident serves to remind us of the inexplicable decline and disappearance of the wooden Indian as an American landmark, and to wonder why antiquarians have not given the subject more attention.

There are several things one would like to know. Why should a wooden Indian, of all creatures, serve as a sign that cigars are for sale? Who got the idea in the first place? Who carved the Indians, and did it take much skill? And why, after so many years of popularity, did the wooden Indian suddenly vanish from the land?

Getting the answers to those questions would not butter any parsnips, perhaps. But the wooden Indian was a prominent feature of the city landscape for many years, and it would be interesting to know more about him.

WISCONSIN'S EXPERIMENT

IT WILL be interesting to see how Wisconsin's unemployment insurance bill, recently enacted, works out.

The bill is apparently a compromise. On the one hand it has a radical tinge, in that all the cost is to be borne by employers, who must set up funds guaranteeing the payment of premiums. On the other hand, it surely goes less far than most workers would want, in that it limits each worker's share to not more than ten weeks of unemployment pay in one year; this pay to be not more than 50 per cent of his average pay.

Nevertheless, the measure represents a good deal more than any other state has been willing to do. Wisconsin's experience with the new law will be well worth watching.

A New York youth was sentenced to 15 years for stealing an apple. Which just goes to show how much Adam and Eve got away with.

CHAPTER XLII

MARY-FRANCES sighed and found a pine nut, deep in a tiny corner of her coat pocket, and ate it.

"A man with a piece of red cloth in his hand stepped out into the road and stopped them. Mary-Frances, for a minute, was frightened, but it was only that road work was going on and that one-way traffic rules were being enforced. They had to wait there for 15 minutes, and then the man gave them the piece of red cloth to deliver to another man, who took it at the far end of the bumpy stretch.

"It is getting late," said Mary-Frances, "and Mendel Springs is so far."

"Want I should let her out to sixty, hon? She can do it, and better," Earl said.

"I guess so," said Mary-Frances. Soon they came to a town named Cutter and sped through it like a streak, but just beyond Cutter there was a long detour, and the road was very bad, and they barely moved along for miles and miles, until finally they reached a little place foolishly named India. Here Earl bought gasoline, and reassured Mary-Frances as to how straight he was going to treat her, and reminded her again that she was going to thank him for her dying day.

Mary-Frances answered, "Yes," twice, and "I know," a time or two; but her gray eyes were wistful, and her sighs were deep drawn.

On the highway, once more, Earl said, "Listen, sweetie baby, I'm going to idle along a ways, and you and I are going to have a little talk—see? You act like you was kinda worried or something—see? I want to tell you I'm crazy about you—see? And you are about me, and all. Just the same, I'm going to treat you like a pal and a buddy—see? And if I don't, I hope I get mine. Here's another thing. A loving, just little sweetie like you is just about going to be the making of me, and I'm—"

"Earl," Mary-Frances interrupted, "I'd rather you'd go faster. I like to go fast."

"Sure, I know. But say, listen, baby, you ain't sore at me nor anything, are you?"

"No. Only I want to get to Mendel Springs. I—just want to get there."

"Little sweetie cutie baby," he said, with real tenderness, "I wish to gosh we could get married right now, open and above."

"Up in the hills. Let's stop here a minute on the porch. Ann, I—Did you have a bad time with Grand after I left this morning?"

"Bad? Terrible. He declares that you pushed him over—struck him down, he says, in the hall—"

"Ann! I did not! Oh, my word! I suppose I am in for it. Well—I can last only so long. Wait a minute, Ann—Angel—I hope you are going to forgive me. Barry is coming back in about half an hour, and I'm going with him—and we're going to be married. Wait—let me tell you. He got the license in Albany yesterday—just think. We've been talking and talking and deciding all day. We either have to marry or give each other up entirely. There's his book—his books, and I—his future. Everything. I'll keep on working, of course, and pay right now, open and above—what I make, every cent of it, in

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

(Copyright 1931 by Douglas Malloch)

IF WE WOULD COME

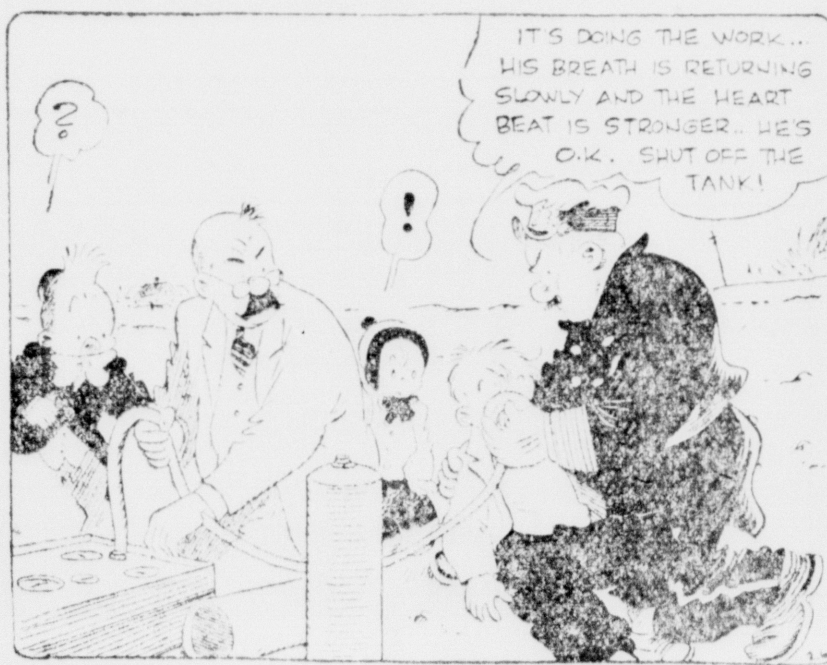

If I would come to you someday,
If I would come to you and say,
"Forgive me"—but my lips are dumb.
A thousand times we think that way,
But never come.

Or, if I never came to you,
If you would come and whisper, too,
"I have forgiven long ago"
And yet you never will, I know,
We never do.

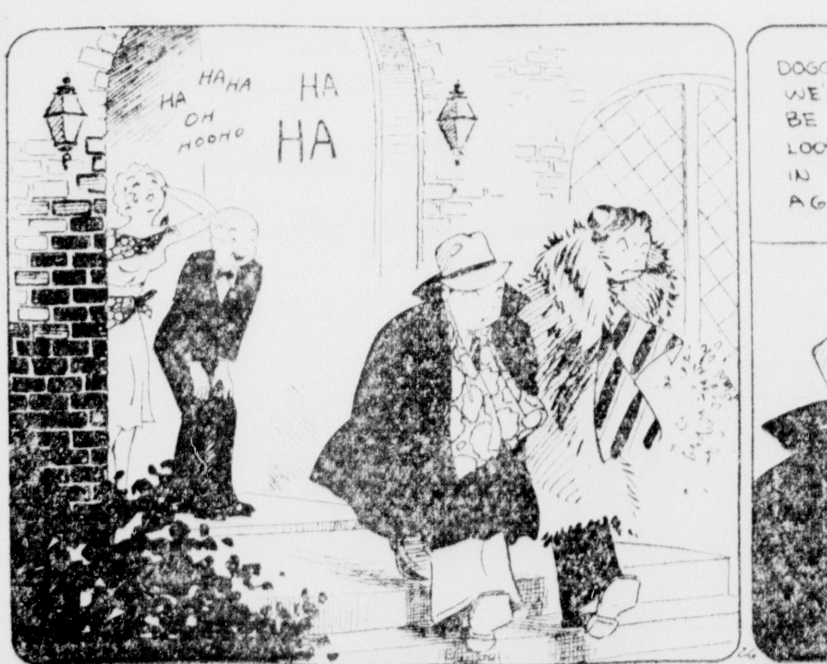

If we would come, the maid, the man,
Begin again where we began,
Take up the thread of our old dreams
And weave them over—but it seems
We never can.

If either came, by road or bill,
And only said, "I love you still,"
If I came there or you came here,
And said but that—and yet I fear—
We never will.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

here at home. If Barry's book is a success, and it is bound to be, we can help a lot. We're coming, both of us, on Sundays to clean house. Barry says he's a slick cleaner of houses, and—You said you wanted me to marry, Ann. You remember, the other day, you said—"

"Sister's sweetheart! Of course I said so, and I do. Dear, I'm glad. Don't think anything else. I don't talk so—so humbly. I'm glad. You'll be so happy. So happy."

"YES, but—Ann, how shall I break it to Grand and Rosalie? Barry said just to say—"

"They aren't here, thank goodness! They've gone out with the Carmichaels for dinner and the evening. They are cheering Grand up. I know, so they'll probably play euchre and be away late. You can just go. I would, if I were you. Just go. I'll tell them when they come home. They'll fuss, but I don't care. Cissy, after the past hour it would take more than a scene to shake me. Now that you are alive and happy, nothing else seems to matter. Really it doesn't. Come, let's go in. No one's at home. Not even Mary-Frances."

In the lower hall Cecily said, "Angel, angel, angel Ann!"

In the upper hall she said, "And I was afraid to tell you! Then you don't think that I'm frightfully selfish and—all that? You know, you understand that. I'm not really letting you down?"

"Cissy dear! Of course I don't—I mean, I do—I mean whatever I do mean. I'm just glad—that's all. Glad for your pluck and everything. What are you going to wear? Oh, Cissy, honey—you must take those lovely undies. Penn Johns sent me last Christmas. Let me see—my gloves are more than yours. You take them. And my best stockings—I haven't worn them. Now, let me see—you'll wear your new tan this evening, won't you? I would, if I were you. My beads are sweet with it. I'm so glad you washed your hair yesterday. What do you want to take, honey? I'll be putting the things out on the bed while you're in the bathroom."

"I suppose I'll have to take that awful old suitcase, as well as my overnight bag. We're going to Albany tomorrow. Later in the week we'll come down, and I'll pack a trunk; but I won't want to have to rush about it. Yes, the old suitcase and my overnight bag. I can leave the suitcase in the car tonight. If you'll get them out, I'll decide what to put in them later. I suppose there isn't any hot water?"

"I'll light the gas heater. No, that takes too long. I'll run down and put on the kettle and bring it up—"

"You will not. I'll do it myself."

THEY started for the door and arrived there at the same time, and there was a small rush. Cecily said, "You get the bags, angel, and I'll put on the kettle. I won't have you running up and down stairs, waiting on me. The suitcase is in the east room closet, I think. My bag is in my closet."

"Cissy! I've had an awful thought. It isn't Mary-Frances went to Ermintrude's to spend the night, and I'm sure she has taken your bag. She always does."

"But I must have it. I can't positively can't take that old wooden brush and black comb of mine—nor any of my toilet things—they're disgraceful."

"Don't worry. I'll telephone to her right away to bring it home. You'd want to tell her goodbye."

"Of course. I'll call her while I'm downstairs. You get the suitcase, dear. But don't fill it with your things. I'm not going to take all your things."

Ann found the suitcase, and sighed because of its scratches and dents and rough spots. She opened the bureau drawers in the past room and tossed through their scented contents. The bureau in the east room had served her hope chest. So many of the things she had thought prettily were odd and old-fashioned now. Imagine anyone's wearing a step-in the size of this thing. It was large enough for Rosalie. Here was that sweet changeable tuffeta breakfast coat that Nella had given her. Cissy must take it. She wouldn't? Well, it could be locked in when Cissy wasn't watching. A little pile of extra handkerchiefs. These fancy garters—"

Cecily, kettle in hand, came to the door and said, "The line is busy. I've tried and tried. Have you looked in my closet? Perhaps she didn't take it," and rushed away.

It was not in the closet. Ann went downstairs to the telephone and listened to the small quick thuds that informed her Ermintrude was talking to a friend. She waited for a few minutes, and dialed the number again, and then again, but the thuds continued; so she went to the foot of the stairs and called to Cecily:

"I'll run over to the Hills and get her. It's only a few blocks, and it will be easier than fusing at this phone, and quicker. I'll hurry."

Cecily answered, "Well—if you don't mind, Ermintrude's probably on the line. She may talk all night."

Favorite Recipe
Betty Ann

An original recipe for a delicious shrimp salad is given Betty Ann readers this morning by a young matron, Mrs. Kenneth Wagenhauser, who finds time to plan new dishes, aside from her work in Parent-Teacher and Girl Scout groups in which she is actively interested.

Shrimp Salad
One can shrimp, cut in small pieces.
One cup celery hearts, diced.
One-half cup of pimento cheese, diced.

Two cups of macaroni ringlets or creamettes, cooked and cooled. One small can peas.

Mix with mayonnaise dressing, chill and serve on lettuce leaves, using stuffed olives for garnishing. Mrs. Kenneth Wagenhauser, 209 South Twelfth street.

With the beginning of Lent not far away, requests are already being received by the Betty Ann department for Lenten season dishes. If you have recipes which will help solve many a menu problem for your neighboring readers, will you call the Betty Ann department of the Press, telephone 493, or write out your recipes and send them in to the Press office.

Desk Sergeant
Is a Busy Woman

Charlotte, N. C. (AP)—Charlotte police are taking their orders now from a woman.

She is Mrs. Eloise Brown, who has been promoted to the position of desk sergeant. She is the first woman to hold such a position here.

All prisoners en route to the city jail pass before her glass-enclosed desk, from which she answers all telephonic communications and broadcasts orders to radio cruisers in the city.

In spare time Mrs. Brown keeps books for the day desk captain and the clerk of recorder's court.

Mary and Jackie received many toys as mementoes of the happy occasion. Mothers of the young guests accompanied them at the party.

Heralding Spring

The vogue for open-mesh fabrics brings back Irish lace to the top of fashions. In one of the season's first spring suits, an Irish lace blouse with short sleeves and revers for collar joins with a corded navy blue silk to make an extremely chic ensemble. The jacket's sloping shoulders, abbreviated length both as to the body of the jacket and the sleeves, and the fact that it doesn't fasten at all, proclaim the new trends for spring. A red silk sash girdles the waistline.

CITY BRIEFS

To Award Sewer
Contract Tonight

The contract for the construction of the trunk sewer to be laid in Gladstone in Eleventh street and Montana avenue will be awarded at a continued meeting of the City Commission, to be held tonight.

Final action on the sewer bids was deferred at the Monday night meeting in order to give the Commission an opportunity to investigate the financial responsibility and construction record of the John R. Edleman company, of Muskegon Heights who were low bidders of eight contracting firms competing for the job.

The Edleman bid, as announced at the Monday night meeting was $7,204.55, but upon a recheck of the figures it was found that the bid totalled $7,198.95. The next low bid was that of the Delta Construction company, of Escanaba, with a total of $7,804.77. Nebel Bros., Gladstone contractors, were third low with a bid of $8,020.16.

With their bid, the Edleman company attached a statement in which they agreed that they would pay a minimum wage of 40 cents per hour for labor and would use no machinery in the construction of the sewer. All other bidders specified a minimum wage of 35 cents per hour.

Pertinent Comment

The low figures to which construction costs have dropped was made evident Monday night when bids were submitted for the construction of a trunk line sewer in Gladstone. In 1921, when the sewer plans were adopted, an engineer's estimate on this project was $21,000; this last year, when the plans and estimates were made, the engineering department of the city estimated the cost at $13,000; but now construction is to cost but $7,200.

But, strange as it may seem, under the terms of the proposal, the contractor is to pay for his labor an hourly wage that is not far below the figure paid in 1921. Not only that, but the contractor agrees that no machinery shall be used and that the men to be employed are to be from the unemployment lists of the city.

The wisdom exercised by the city officials during the "boom" days in not permitting themselves to be carried away on a wild spending orgy is now in evidence. Had this work been done when prices were high and labor conditions good, it would have cost two to three times as much—and likely the materials and workmanship would have been of poorer quality than will be secured now.

It is also true that had the city expended its credit during the period of high prices, it would not be in position now to enter upon a program of construction to relieve unemployment.

Miss Mary Peterson and Mrs. Tom DeVoy, Gary, Ind., have arrived to spend several days at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Masterson.

Richard Constantino, spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Constantino, Osler, Mich.

Clarence Erickson left yesterday for Mackinac Island, where he will be employed for several weeks.

Gregory Schram has returned from Minneapolis after a week's visit there with relatives.

M. E. BANQUET
IS A SUCCESS

Good Program Brings
24th Anniversary Ceremonies to Close

The banquet of the Methodist General Memorial church, on Monday evening, which brought to a close a two-day series of services in commemoration of the reconstruction of the church in 1908, was the most successful of the annual gatherings, according to Rev. H. W. Coleman. More than one hundred and thirty plates were laid and those in attendance had the privilege of being entertained and informed by one of the finest programs that has ever been presented here.

The banquet program was provided over by Toastmaster A. R. Watson, superintendent of the public schools, who, in his opening remarks, paid glowing tribute to the value of religion in the development of community life. Mr. Watson also gave a brief survey of the local church and its various organizations.

The banquet address, delivered by Rev. Joseph Dutton, of Marquette was a tribute to America and at the same time an indictment of the person or persons who have lost faith in America and its traditions. "Hold Fast America," was a fitting title and the speaker brought home to his listeners that they had their part to play in bringing about a return to the fundamentals of Americanism.

The speaker began his address with a few pleasanties. Among others he cited a friend of his, an automobile salesman at Manistique, who recently attended a convention in Milwaukee. When called upon to tell how his business was going, this friend said that early in the past year it had gone badly; he had been brought up a Methodist, with a considerable regard for the truth; and he happened to be a Democrat, and therefore naturally honest and, moreover, sales had been poor. But in recent months he had taken a business partner—a Presbyterian and Republican—and now sales were picking up considerably.

Rev. Dutton, in the opening paragraphs of the address proper, took up the matter of industrial relations, and, while clearly recognizing present conditions as distressing to many people, cited many instances he had observed over the upper peninsula of heroic sacrifice and patient expectation.

As a gripping illustration, of a local nature, of what America has done and can yet do for ambitious youth of integrity and brains, the speaker briefly outlined the career of Mr. M. J. Fox, lumberman of Iron Mountain, in whose honor a complimentary dinner was recently given attended by over 400 of the citizens of Iron Mountain.

"The winter cabin nests of ho-hoos along the railroad near Iron Mountain, chant the praises of the man who is never inaccessible behind a series of secretaries," he said, "but who is personally approachable by the commonest workman; and whose hand has on a habitual path it travels from his pocket the palm of the needy lumber-jack."

"Such relations," he continued, "existing between employer and employee makes for the stabilization of industry, and for the impossibility of America ever turning back."

Rev. Dutton declared that, in three years of almost continual travel over the upper peninsula, he has yet to hear one word (tell from the lips of a workman) directed against the copper and iron mine owners. He told that he has never heard of one of these men who has been marked of this to various miners the reply had been: "They are doing the best they can, those mine owners. We all know they are operating the mines at a loss to give us fellows a loaf and a roof over our heads. More than that, they do not collect any rent from us when we are out of a job. Then, too, we go on company land and cut our own wood. No, they can't make any money at present prices of copper."

The speaker cited a recent quaint interpretation of the Bible as Job, by Calvin Coolidge, in which the ex-president describes Job as an affluent, but probably wealthy, man.

Job was a wealthy man, but at his own name, loss of prestige depressed Job's family and they all died. Loss of fortune affected Job's health and he got boils.

Job's friends came and talked of reparations, but Job could not see it. Job refused to "curse God and die."

"A long rest, and the simple life rested Job and he got better. Renewed vigor brought new investments and a return of fortune until he was richer than ever. Job even married again and raised another family. Thus in the end Job was even better off than ever before."

"Hold fast, America," the speaker implored. "It is profitable either to curse God, or die. Live! Trust God. The better day, not another 'post-war' prices day, but a better day will come."

Prohibition
The speaker's second theme treatment was a few brief trenchant remarks about the "present anxiety shown by the wets to improve the conditions which so shock their sensitive spirits, and sully their righteous souls." "It is true," said the speaker, "that recently a Boston man, celebrating recently took two drinks and was so affected by it that he bit an iron dog on a lawn. Some people held for the dog, which no doubt received the Pasteur treatment."

"A newspaper wag," he continued, "recently got this off 'If, as Laureate Masefield holds, 'Poetry's the wine of the universe,' a fellow we narrowly avoided last evening must have had one or two too many."

"Certain very bright club women with more poodies than babes," he sarcastically continued, "express their horror over the restrictions placed upon them by the Eighteenth amendment, but Miss Jane Addams of Hull House declares that there is such a difference now that she seems to be living in another world. Her poor are moving away into better places than Halstead street. In that part of Chicago the social workers have hardly any more squalid homes and neglected families to deal with."

Kathleen Norris, noted present-day Catholic writer, deprecates the introduction of religion into the wet and dry question. Mrs. Norris says, "In my girlhood, every good mother was worrying about a drinking son. I would list you whole families of what used to be called San Francisco's aristocracy wiped out by drink."

"Drinking was not shocking," Mrs. Norris declared, and it was not interesting, because it was the accepted thing."

Peace and War

The third theme treatment by the speaker was on peace and war. "Hold steady, America!" the dangle, empty sleeve of the returned soldier is a stronger argument for disarmament than any loud outcry for ships and armies made by war-producers," he declared.

"All the better class men among the American Legion," he said, "declare that if another war comes in their day, the Legion will see to it that all rich men take their places in the front trenches at once. If all wealth is conscripted as well as the bodies of youth, there will be earnest effort to settle the disputes in some other way than by weapons."

In conclusion Rev. Dutton said: "There is hope for America, as long as race prejudice can be subdued, religious fanaticism avoided, and the needs of home integrity be the common concern of all classes of men."

A Good Program

The entire banquet program was pronounced excellent by those in attendance. Musical numbers included several selections by the Sunday School orchestra and vocal solos by Mrs. Conan Fisher and Noble Swenson.

Mrs. Fisher sang "I Passed by Your Window" and "If I Knew You" and Mr. Swenson presented "Do You Know My Garden." "Be the Best Whatever You Are" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." The final number by Mr. Swenson was presented at the request of banquet guests.

A reading from the "Merchant of Venice" by Miss Danielson and two humorous readings by Mrs. C. W. LaFaver were well received.

BEG PARDON

In the City Club story carried yesterday, the Press erred in reciting the history of the club. According to information secured from members of the club, familiar with its inception and organization, the records from which the story was compiled are incorrect.

The City Club, the Press learns, was organized in 1927 at the instigation of E. A. Erickson, R. A. Hale, J. A. Sturgeon and James T. Jones, who brought to the attention of the firms of Gladstone that the city needed some central civic organization in which every type of business might be represented.

This group called a meeting for the purpose of organization and a membership of 40 or more secured. E. A. Erickson was elected as president of the club and with the assistance of other promoters brought the infant organization through a successful year.

No reports of the first year's activities of the club are to be found in the records and for this reason the Press failed to give to E. A. Erickson the credit of having been the founder and first head of Gladstone's civic organization.

$8,000 of 5 Per Cent
Serial Bonds to Be Issued

Bonds to provide funds for the construction of the trunk sewer in Eleventh street and Montana avenues will be sold Feb. 8, under the provisions of a resolution adopted by the City Commissioners Monday night. Sealed bids, with a certified check in the amount of 5 per cent of the bid must be in the hands of the city clerk at five o'clock on that date, the resolution provides.

The total amount of bonds authorized for the sewer construction was $14,000, but only sufficient bonds to cover the cost of construction and administration will be sold. This amount will be $8,000.00, owing to the low contract price according to City Manager Buechner.

The bonds will be issued in denominations of $1,000, due serially and will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. The first bond will be paid in 193

Alvin E. Pell, 65,
Claimed by Death

Newberry, Jan. 26 (Special).—Alvin E. Pell, 65, died at his home at 144 West John street at six o'clock this morning from pneumonia, following an illness of five days. For the past several years he has been associated with his son Earl in the pool room on Newberry avenue. Besides his wife and son he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Paul Hoholick of Sault Ste. Marie and Mrs. Alex Westin of Antigo, Wis. All of the family were here when he died.

Because many relatives will come from a distance the funeral will be delayed until Thursday afternoon and will be held from the residence.

NEWBERRY BRIEFS

The regular meeting of the village council was held in the council chambers in the community building on Monday evening. Only the usual passing of bills and routine business was transacted.

Mrs. R. G. Ferguson of Sault Ste. Marie and Mrs. David Hackney of Marquette were the guests of Mrs. M. Beslie on Monday.

A chimney fire called out the department to the home of Harold Westman on Tuesday morning. No damage was done.

From Arson Case
Called for Trial

Circuit court for Alcey county is now in full swing. The cases against Lawrence Hayes and Ethel Hayes, on the calendar since last winter, were dismissed on account of not being able to locate the witnesses for whom bench warrants had been issued.

Kate Munk Grant, charged with violation of the liquor laws, pleaded guilty.

The case against Mike Savage was dismissed.

The Fromm arson case was called up for trial yesterday forenoon. Fromm is being defended by Attorney R. W. Four Men Fishing
In Open Waters

Four commercial fishermen are still fishing in the open lake with their gasoline launches, no ice having yet formed. This is the first time since the winter of 1877-78 that Lake Superior has not been frozen at this point. In addition to the mild weather there is also a lack of sufficient snow, which assists the freezing process. The fishermen find the work hard, nevertheless, and the catches are not very heavy. Those engaged in fishing, particularly, hope for freezing weather for should no ice form they will be greatly inconvenienced and suffer financial loss on account of having to seek other sources for a supply of ice.

ON WAY TO MARQUETTE

Sheriff George Colby and his deputy, Bert Beardsley, of Battle Creek, stopped in Munising yesterday on their way to Marquette where they were conducting a prisoner, Joseph Fellon, who was sentenced to a fifteen year term by Judge Hatch of Calhoun county, for breaking and entering, on several counts. Fellon was convicted on more than one count and has served time in Marquette prison before. He is 37 years of age.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

The Alger county teachers' institute will be held at the Marquette high school auditorium February 16. Dr. E. B. Bryan, president of the Ohio State university at Athens, Ohio, is on the program. His subjects will be "Social Function of the School" and "The Meaning of Education." Dr. Bryan is an outstanding national educator. He was president of Franklin college, Ind., while a young man; was called from the presidency of Franklin college to the commission of education in the Philippine islands. He returned to the United States to accept the presidency of Colgate university, N. Y. From Colgate he went to the presidency of Ohio state university, where he has been for several years.

GOOD FOR PARTRIDGE

Those who frequent the woods tell us that the present winter weather has been favorable for partridge. Three or four years ago it seemed that these splendid native game birds were on the verge of extermination, but a closed law and favorable weather conditions has been responsible for a large increase in their numbers. With continued protection and favorable weather the flocks will no doubt again become numerous on the upper peninsula.

COUNCIL HOLDS
REGULAR MEET

City Health Report For 1931 Issued By Dr.
A. R. Tucker

Acceptance of the annual health report, approval of the immunization of pre-school children against diphtheria, approval of construction plans for the construction of a dry cleaning shop, and the adoption of a resolution for the formulation of a message of condolence in regard to the passing of one of their members, Frank N. Cookson, were the business measures transacted by the city council at their regular meeting Monday evening.

The health report for 1931 submitted by Dr. A. R. Tucker, city health officer, is as follows: There was only one case of measles in the city in 1931, the patient recovered.

There were 15 cases of scarletina and all cases cured. There were 2 cases of pneumonia from which one died and one recovered.

There were 2 cases of poliomyelitis and both recovered. Chicken pox laid up 43 and all recovered.

There were nine cases of tuberculosis, 2 of which died, 2 are listed as recovered and 5 still sick.

There were a total of 75 cases listed on the health report of which 3 died, 67 recovered and 5 are still sick.

The report further shows that the number of tubercular patients residing in Schoolcraft county is 18; four are residing at Howell, three at Battle Creek, one at Powers, two in California and six were receiving treatment at home.

A plan of the immunization of pre-school children against diphtheria was presented to the council by Miss Emma Johnson, county nurse. The council unanimously approved of it and it will be submitted next to the board of education in regard to school children.

It was pointed out that hundreds of thousands of Michigan school children have been immunized against this disease, but there are still thousands who have not yet been protected and out of this number many deaths occur each year. Ninety per cent of these deaths are in the ranks of school children.

Protective methods. It was pointed out, in a local school, that in three treatments at intervals of three weeks. This is sufficient to protect most children. For a small percentage a second series is necessary, however. To determine whether or not a child is safeguarded or not, a simple skin test, called the Schick test, is given.

Plans for the construction of a dry cleaning shop, submitted by O. C. Quick, were approved. The shop will be located at 211 Oak street.

All members of the council were present.

Whitdale & Gulliver

Whitdale, Mich., Jan. 2. (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Walker were visitors at the Ed Walker home in Manistique last Sunday.

Peter Nelson, his daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Klagstad, and his little son, Robert, were visitors in Germantown Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Allison of Waubun, Minn., have returned to their home after visiting friends and relatives in Whitdale, Manistique and Escanaba.

Ben Davis left for Ann Arbor a week ago last Saturday. Mr. Davis came home, hoping he would soon be able to walk, but the "sore spot" on his leg would not heal and he had to return to the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Allison and M. Brearley were business visitors at the Clifford Roberts and D. J. Wood homes in Newberry last Saturday.

Phyllis and Frances Lindberg of Manistique, who have been visiting at the Brearley home during their mother's illness, returned to their home Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Brearley were visitors last Sunday at the John Crochton and Mrs. Minerva Scott homes in Manistique.

Mrs. G. G. Beal, teacher at the Green school near Blaney Park, and son Jack were week-end visitors at the William Reid home.

Martha Brearley is at the M. Lindberg home in Manistique, where she will help her sister until she has recovered from her recent operation.

Friends of Mrs. A. W. Lundberg will be pleased to know that since her return from Rochester, Minn., where she was a patient at Mayo's, her health is much improved.

Harvey Lindquist, our section foreman, who from illness was compelled to lay off work before Thanksgiving, is gaining in health. Alvin Hodge is section foreman during the absence of Mr. Lindquist.

Wallace and Eugene Calvert, with two friends, Ivan MacDonal and Merrie Sheets, of Rockford, Ill., were visitors at the Calvert cottage over the week-end. They left for Rockford Wednesday morning.

These are days when more than one car has gone into the ditch near Whitdals. While the broken ice, snow and mud tell the story, no serious accidents have

BOWLING NOTES

DAIRIES WIN
The Nelson Dairies took two games out of three from the Howbridge Druggs at the Brault alleys in a hard fought close match in which the Dairies obtained a six pin advantage in totals. Another match in the city league was held last night and the other two teams in the four team circuit will clash Thursday evening. Tonight two games in the Presbyterian league will occupy the alleys.

Doughboys Narrow
Gob's Lead Monday
In Elks Contests

In their engagement Monday evening, Club members of Doughboys sprang a surprise attack on Kelly's Gobs and mopped up on them to the tune of 57 pins. This cuts down the Gob majority to a bare 249 pins with nine more contests to go, which makes the series the more interesting.

George Swanson was the real sharpshooter for the winning Doughboys averaging 187 for the evening, while Parker trailed on it a few pins behind. Harold Cookman and Kelly did the best work for the Gobs.

Givins' gang of Doughboys will take on Bill Thomas' Gobs tonight, and Art Dreydahl will lead his crew of Sergeants against Isackson's Mates Wednesday night.

Two Local Teams to Play Garden Tonight

Two entries in the local amateur city league will demonstrate their wares on foreign floors tonight when the Lanerman Specials and the Christensen Clothiers play at Garden.

The Specials will take on the strong Garden City team while the Clothiers will meet the Garden alumni in the first game of the twin bill.

After all, we can't control love.

FINE BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

More Than 60 Volumes
Are Received Since
Early December

Upwards of 60 volumes have been received by the Manistique public library in the past month and a half to satisfy the increasing demand of the ever multiplying reading public.

While a large supply of fiction has been received, many latest releases of new and worth-while books dot the shelves. Some of the outstanding books include four on agricultural problems; Snow Trench, an account of the American soldiers in Russia during the World War; Temperamental Jane an historical novel of the life of Mrs. Carlyle, by Wilson; Pontifex Maximus, a short charming story by M. P. S. Andrews, the author of The Perfect Tribute; Massacre, by R. Gessner, the Escanaba author, a work pertaining to the relations between the government and the Indians which has gained for him much renown among literary critics; and Tall Stories by Lowell Thomas, a collection of remarkable yarns which he tells over the radio.

One of the noteworthy books in the line of poetry which local folks will find very interesting is Christmas Recitations, a collection of fine poems edited by Dorothy M. Shipman, local librarian and author.

The fine variety of books received recently include almost everything from wild western stories to the art of tap dancing and should provide a subject of interest for almost every type of reader. The following new volumes may now be procured:

Fiction

Western Stories—Beyond Rio Grande, Raine; Light of the Western Stars, Zane Grey; Land of the Free, C. A. Seltzer; Sheriff of Chispa Loma, C. H. Snow; Man-Size, Raine.

Juvenile

Durandal, H. Lamb, juvenile literary guild; Hail Columbia, M. A. Lawson; Story of the Catherine's, Story of the Elizabeths, Story of the Jones, G. Humphrey. Charming written novels of the famous queens of history.

Mrs. Eugene Johnston and family of Isabella are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John Herli, 117 North Third street, this week.

SOCIAL

Bridge Club
Mrs. Anton Weber entertained the members of her bridge club at her home Monday evening. Two tables of cards were in play with honors being won by Miss Margaret Palmer, first, Mrs. William Bessert, second, and Mrs. Sebastian Weber, Jr., consolation. Delicious refreshments were served along with the games with the tables being attractively decorated in the Valentine style.

Delphin Club
Members of the Delphin club were guests of Mrs. Thomas Bolitho at their regular meeting Monday evening. The program for this meeting was on Paris and some of the members gave very interesting talks on places of interest in that city. The topics for this meeting were the Palace of Justice, by Mrs. Russell Wilson; Parks and Gardens by Mrs. Chas. Hovey; Saint Chapelle; Mrs. W. L. Middlebrook; and The Grand Opera House, Mrs. Jennie Putnam.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Russell Wilson, 119 South Cedar street, on Tuesday, January 8.

A number of friends gathered at the Paschal Jewett home on the River Road Saturday evening to surprise Miss Demaris Anderson and aid her in celebrating her birthday. The evening was spent in dancing after which a tasty lunch was served.

Miss Anderson received many lovely gifts from her guests.

Attending the party were the Misses Hazel Brock, Linnea Wall, Onota, Minnie, Alleen, and Zada Murphy, Cecelia Duquette, Della Wilman, Doris Schurer, Fern Rice, Clara Hamel, Margaret Barton, Elizabeth, Esther and Sue Arrowood, and Vertal Schurer, and Clayton and Neely Schurer, Harry Curran, William Wood, Ivan and Elmer White, Alfred Murphy, Milton Bunker, Carl Yoder, Earl Fiebert, Claude Jewett, Robert and Charles Arrowood, Robert Nelson, William Anderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. Paschal Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buruse and son, Robert.

Why Wholesale
Fur Smuggling?

Wholesale violations in regard to the smuggling of heavier pelts in the upper peninsula which were uncovered last week by the state conservation department, is another example of too stringent a law defeating its own purpose, according to the opinions of Manistiquians citizens who have given much thought to the subject.

Game laws as established by the department of conservation on heavier make the trapping of this fur bearing animal impractical, they claim, and unworthy while it done legally, and as a result sorely tempts trappers to smuggle furs on to the market. This is particularly true in times like these when ready cash is at a premium.

Rules and regulations require a license fee of $2.00 plus $1.50 for a seal for each heavier pelt, with a maximum limit of five heavier in the open season between December 5 and December 29, inclusive. If the quota were obtained, fees alone would amount to $9.50, to say nothing of the cost of traps and the labor involved. The market price on heavier in Michigan is about $7.00 per pelt, which, if the quota were obtained, would net the trapper a profit of approximately $25.50 for his season's work exclusive of any reward for his labor or the cost of traps. Trapping may be a fine sport, but it is far from being a gem of a commercial proposition.

Further provisions of the law state that it is unlawful to set a trap within 500 feet of a heavier lodge, home, hole, or dam. Even the amateur trapper knows what chance he has of getting a heavier without violating any of the foregoing provisions. Very little chance, if any. A law to the effect that trapper may be caught anywhere except in the holes of the various open streams would be comparable. It is ventured that over 90 per cent of the heavier obtained this season have been trapped in violation of the above regulation.

Angus McIntyre was admitted to the Shaw hospital Monday evening as a medical patient.

Eskymos Win From Parochial Cagers by 27 to 10

SIX VICTORIES IN SEVEN TILTS

Escanaba Reserves Take First Game by Margin of 26-6

Leading all the way, the Escanaba high school basketball team won their sixth game in seven starts last evening by defeating St. Joseph at the Coliseum gymnasium, 27 to 10. It was the second meeting of the teams this season, the Eskymos winning the first 15 to 13 at the Junior high school gymnasium on Dec. 4.

The Eskymos looked like a much improved outfit over the team that barely was able to defeat the Parochials earlier this season. They were clicking in good form offensively and, defensively, they had the St. Joseph quintet completely bottled up until the third quarter when they loomed in the first field goal of the evening for the Brunelle athletes.

Eskymo Reserves Win
McGovern's free throw tossing saved the Parochials a washout in the first half. He counted three times in this manner in the first half which ended 17 to 3 in favor of the Eskymos.

The Parochials aroused their spirits in the third period to make their best bid of the evening. They played the Nordberg quintet on even terms, each team scoring three points but in the final quarter the Eskymos went out to again increase their margin.

In the preliminary, the Eskymo Reserves won from the St. Joseph Reserves, 26 to 6.

A crowd of about 1,000 fans witnessed the program.

HARRIS NEWS

P. T. A. Meeting

Harris, Mich., Jan. 26 (Special)—The Harris P. T. A. association held its meeting Thursday, January 27. The date of meeting has been changed from the second Thursday of the month to the third Thursday of each month. This change was brought about to eliminate conflicting dates with the neighboring P. T. A. associations. It was felt that a great deal of good would come to all the P. T. A. associations in this vicinity if each would co-operate and exchange ideas with the other.

The entertainment for the evening was furnished by the Junior High School from Persepolis, under the direction of John S. Guck. A splendid educational play entitled "The Plummer Breach of Promise Case" was given. The cast was as follows:

Justice of Peace—Victor Manikiewicz.
Bailiff—Tony Cavadeas.
Defendant—Tony Hahewest.
Plaintiff—Andrew Pearson.
Counsel for Plaintiff—Laurence Finn.
Counsel for Defendant—Edward Weisick.
Spectator—Mary Cavadeas.

Witnesses—Thelma Johnson, Sophia Bartoszek, Alice Godlewski, May Dower, Helen Glowacki, Helen Monarz.

P. T. A. Bond Time Party
The Harris P. T. A. is going to sponsor a hard-time party next Saturday evening, January 28th. This is going to be the last party before Lent.

I-H Clubs
Mr. Rood, state club leader, Mr. Kuhn, county agent, and Miss Bird, visited with the club members Monday. Mr. Rood gave the boys a lecture on wood staining and finishing. The boys' club called "Handy Andy Handcraft Club" has enrolled twenty-four boys today.

Senior Ball
The seniors of the Harris High school entertained their friends with a ball Saturday evening, Jan. 16. The evening was spent in dancing. Music was furnished by the Tanco Texans. Hats, horns, confetti and other novelties furnished fun for the evening. Immediately following the dance, a tasty lunch was served.

Other News
William Sharon, who is teaching in Cedar River, spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sharon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Bellefeuil and daughters Betty Ann and Jean, visited with Dorothy Bellefeuil who is working at Pinecrest Sanatorium, Monday.

Miss Irene Sharon, Mrs. V. King and daughter Beverly of Atherton, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sharon.

The swimming fame that George Kojac brought to Rutgers university will be augmented by some that Walter Spence, above, is expected to add. Spence is a Rutgers sophomore and is already a world record-holder in the backstroke. He's the key man in the Rutgers tank team of 1932 and may take a prominent part in the Olympic games this summer.

BOXING

Niles, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—Jack Redman, of South Bend, Ind., heavyweight champion of Indiana, was awarded a technical knockout over Jack Roper, Chicago, when the referee stopped the fight in the sixth of eight scheduled rounds to night.

Redman had put a deep gash in Roper's left eye. The winner weighed 186 pounds; Roper, 194.

END OF BUSY LIFE CAUSED BY PARALYSIS

Also Philanthropist
Sometimes it was a "bottle" for Wrigley. Twice the chewing gum millionaire was close to bankruptcy in early adventures with soap and premiums. But each time, he came back stronger.

Philanthropy also knew the touch of Wrigley's riches. In the recent relief drive, he gave $100,000. Last winter, hundreds of jobs were lunched by day and night beneath the upper deck of Wacker Drive, under the shadow of his building. He lent one of his westside properties, furnished heat and light, and every day fed five hundred jobless men through the Salvation Army.

The capitalist was known as one of the most heavily insured in Chicago. His policies totalled around $1,500,000.

Last year, when wheat and cotton slumped in price to the lowest levels in years, and growers grew for a loss, Wrigley messaged his jobbers in Canada and in the south that these commodities, up to a certain price limit, would be accepted in payment for Wrigley products.

Wrigley's only venture in politics came in the Harding foodage administration, but he was not an office seeker. He was one of the first in the "draft Coolidge" movement in 1927. President Coolidge, in 1927, had planned on using "Green Gables," Wrigley's home at Lake Geneva, Wis., for his summer vacation, but the plans later fell through.

Burial On Catalina
In the Ku Klux Klan era of a decade ago, the Klan magazine, Tolerance, referred to Wrigley as a member. He forced from the Klan an admission that he was not, and later filed a $50,000 suit for libel.

Friends late today learned Wrigley would probably be buried on Catalina Island, the sort of barony which he bought 13 years ago. There the cultured and refined played over private links. Within three years of purchase Wrigley was offered five times his investment.

Wrigley had two rules for himself: unbounded enthusiasm and great confidence. These were exemplified by his recent entry into the motion picture industry.

The millionaire had long looked longingly at the films. Last fall, with John D. Hertz, John R. Thompson, Jr., and others he acquired controlling interest in the Paramount-Public corporation.

The energy of Wrigley knew almost no limit. One of his associates once described him as "the ball-bearing, self-lubricating, frictionless man."

His son, Philip K. Wrigley, has been president of the Wrigley business for several years. The family has all been at Phoenix, but close associates here today said the son would undoubtedly continue as directing head of the Wrigley fortunes.

RANGERS DOWN SAGOLA, 23-11

Escanaba Quint Prepares For Manistique Tilt Next Sunday

Sagola, Jan. 26 (Special)—The Escanaba Rangers took the odd game in their series with the Sagola Lumberjacks, the Rangers winning tonight's cage battle, 23 to 11. Each team had one victory in two games played earlier this year.

Experimenting with a new combination in preparation for their all-important clash with Manistique at Escanaba next Sunday, the Rangers played cautiously in the first half which they won by an 8 to 5 margin and then went out in the last half to put on a scoring burst that carried them to decisive victory and gave them complete vengeance for the victory the Lumberjacks took from the Rangers here early in January.

Daubert Draftz, back in his old guard berth, and Foke Johanson, latest recruit to the Ranger banner, playing at center, led the scoring procession. Draftz scored four field goals and Folke counted three field goals and a free throw.

The Rangers will use this formula in an attempt to set back the Manistique Legionnaires next Sunday. Manistique defeated Stambaugh, a quintet that holds a victory over the Rangers, and the Legionnaires still can boast an undefeated record.

The Rangers will practice at the Coliseum gym, Escanaba, Wednesday.

Workers Contribute
Marquette—Employees of the Merritt, Chapman and Whitney corporation, contractors who are erecting the new South Shore dock here, have made a voluntary contribution of $298 to the Family Welfare society, of Marquette, it was announced yesterday by J. G. Brazil, superintendent in charge of construction.

A check for $298 has been turned over to the Welfare society by Mr. Brazil, who said it represented a percentage of the wages paid to all men on the Merritt, Chapman and Whitney payroll here.

"Dry" House Destroyed
Vulcan—Fire which broke out at 6:20 o'clock yesterday morning destroyed the "dry" house at the West Vulcan mine, Vulcan. The building, which was about 20 years old, was occupied shortly before the fire was noticed, but mine authorities have been unable to ascertain the origin of the blaze.

To the "old timers" in the mining industry here, this changing house was of some historical importance. Constructed in 1901, it was the first dry in the Lake Superior district to be equipped with individual lockers for the use of the men.

The dry was built under the supervision of William Kelly, 817 West Brown street, this city, who at that time was superintendent for the Penn Iron Mining company, which operates the West Vulcan. In 1902, Mr. Kelly wrote an article describing the dry and this was published in the journal of the Lake Superior Mining Institute.

Sawmill Running
Menominee—American Rule and Block Company today started the annual run of its sawmill at the plant on Ogden avenue to saw a supply of lumber for manufacture into the company's products through the year. Forty-five men were put to work in the sawmill this morning. C. A. Griggs, manager of the company reported.

Altogether, the company is now employing 80 workers in all its departments. Mr. Griggs said the run of the sawmill will probably keep the 45 men employed there at work steadily for six weeks.

Since logs began to arrive at the company's millyard, the factory office has had visits each morning from 50 to 100 men seeking employment. Mr. Griggs said. He reported that all jobs available at the plant are filled.

Gets Rare Bird

Sault Ste. Marie—It was a rare bird that Deputy Sheriff Willard Welsh shot Thursday.

What he believed at first to be a hawk, was identified by M. J. Magee, Sault ornithologist, as a goshawk. Mr. Magee said he knows of only one other ever

Wrigley's Death Cost Baseball One of Its Most Powerful Chiefs

BY PAUL MICKELSON

Chicago, Jan. 26 (AP)—Baseball's "King Midas" is dead. When death overtook William Wrigley Jr., of Phoenix, Arizona, today, it removed from the great national pastime a man whose touch in recent years like that of the ancient mythical king turned everything to gold. It robbed the world of sports of one of its most powerful figures.

It was Wrigley who took over the Chicago Cubs as a weak losing baseball club and converted it into one of the biggest money earners in the history of big time play, establishing a record for attendance in 1929 and reaping a bounteous harvest. It was Wrigley,

Illness May Keep Wolverine Guard Out Of Ohio Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—Henry Weiss, fast and shifty guard of the University of Michigan basketball team, may be forced out of the Ohio State game at Columbus Thursday night because of illness. Weiss has been fighting an attack of influenza for the past week. He played against Minnesota Saturday night, but a fever slowed him down considerably. He has not appeared for practice this week.

Loss of Weiss will reduce the Wolverines' chances of defeating the Buckeyes to somewhere near zero. This stocky guard has been feeding the ball to Daniels and Evedand, forwards all season.

The Ohio game will be the last for Michigan during the first semester, and formal practice will be abandoned until February 8 on account of the mid-year examinations.

The Wolverines would have to defeat Ohio to remain about half way in the Big Ten standings. Michigan has won three and lost two games so far.

Mr. Magee took the bird to the University of Michigan Sunday. It is likely it will be placed in the University museum.

Deputy Welsh, while driving on Riverside Drive, saw the bird eating a partridge by the side of the road. The bird flew to a fence. Deputy Welsh, with a 95-yard revolver shot, killed it with his first shot.

Seek Oldest Mother
Sault Ste. Marie—The oldest native born mother in the United States is to be the guest of the nation on Mother's Day, May 8, 1932, at Washington, D. C. She is to represent motherhood as a tribute to Mary Ball Washington, the mother of George Washington.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, cooperating with the District of Columbia, George Washington Bicentennial Commission will sponsor a nationwide search for the mother who is to be so honored. The campaign has been introduced to Michigan by Mrs. W. E. Chapman, state vice president of the Michigan Federation, who has received orders from Mrs. Eugene B. Lawson, vice president of the General Federation and who has relayed the instructions to Mrs. Sam C. Taylor, president of the Upper Peninsula Federation.

Spartans to Play Trenary Tonight

Rock, Mich., Jan. 26 (Special)—The Rock Spartans will meet the Trenary Independents for the second time this season, at the local gym Wednesday evening. The high school freshmen will take on the Trenary high school team in a preliminary.

The Spartans have six victories in seven starts so far this season and are rapidly improving. They are developing a new style of play, which mentioned very well against Rapid River last week. They defeated Trenary in a previous game and have hopes of again turning the trick.

Trenary, although defeated in their first Spartan encounter, are looking forward to a victory Wednesday night. Led by Harold Cass, they have hopes of making things miserable for the Spartans.

The preliminary promises to furnish plenty of action. Trenary triumphed at the first meeting, which was the first game the local fresh had played. The freshmen, although handicapped by small stature, expect to put up a good scrap.

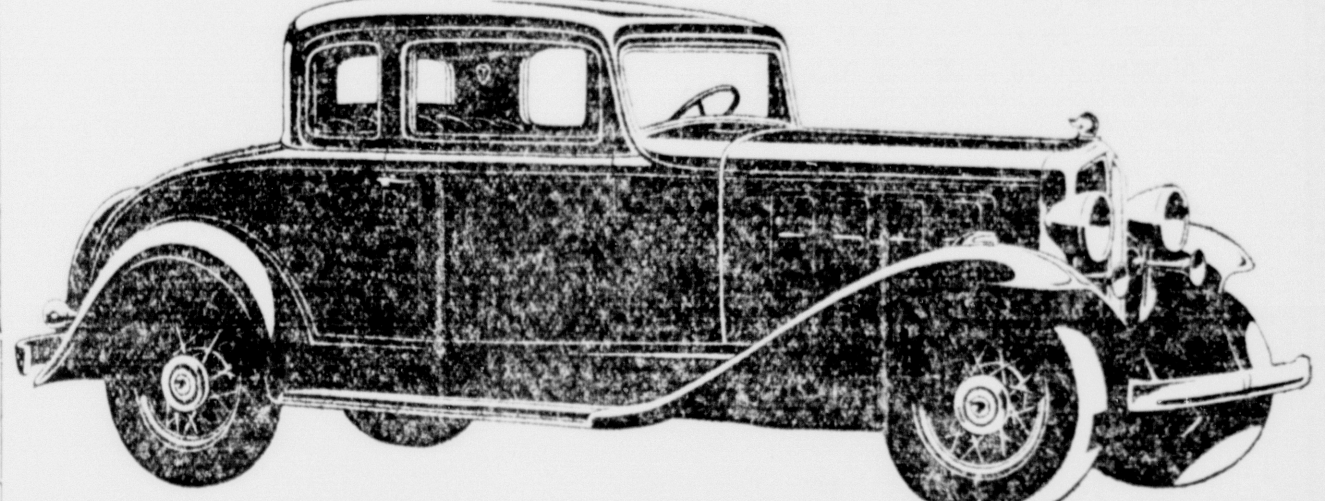

The prelim will begin at 7:15 while the feature attraction is slated for 8:15 o'clock.

Grand Rapids Will Be Site Of Tourney

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP)—The annual Michigan A. A. U. basketball tournament will be held in Grand Rapids March 23 to 26, Thorne J. Browne, chairman of the basketball committee, announced today. Two weeks before the tournament the Western Michigan A. A. U. tournament, an elimination affair, will be held.

ride control, rubber cushioning and longer wheelbase give Pontiac riding comfort

With Ride Control—the newest development—you adjust shock absorber action to rough or smooth roads, by touching a button on the dash. Then, there is rubber cushioning at 47 chassis points—a remarkably complete system which insulates the motor and other mechanical units from the frame, and the frame from the body. The long wheelbase assures road-steadiness, and the enclosed, self-lubricating springs further promote easy riding.

AUXILIARY UNIT MAY ORGANIZE

Officers of Escanaba Legion Confer With Women Tonight

Former officers of the Escanaba American Legion Auxiliary unit will meet tonight with officers of the Legion to discuss prospects for a reorganization of the auxiliary in this city. The executive meeting was called after the proposition was submitted to the post membership at their last meeting, and it was voted at that time that the executive committee confer with former auxiliary leaders and learn their wishes with regard to rejuvenating the unit.

The auxiliary here holds a charter, but has been inactive for some time, and action must be taken at once to preserve the charter. The organization still has a small balance in the treasury. State and district officers of the auxiliary have promised to lend their active support building up the Escanaba auxiliary.

The meeting tonight has been called for 7 p. m. at the Escanaba National Bank. All members of the Legion executive committee and all ex-officers of the auxiliary have been notified to attend.

High School Pupils See 'Willow Plate'

Escanaba high school students enjoyed the presentation of the Woman's club play, "The Willow Plate" on Tuesday morning in the school auditorium. The unique drama of the Chinese prince, Mung Chiu-pu, and his betrothed, Cheng Loy Fah, who were separated by the Dragon of the Willow Plate followed the ancient traditions of the Chinese theatre in its unfolding.

Much praise for the fine performance is due to the cast of characters and their director, Mrs. H. L. Holderman, also to Mrs. E. J. MacMartin, chairman of the Escanaba Woman's club junior project. Miss Pearl Olson played the accompaniment which greatly enhanced the effect of the play.

The complete cast of characters was as follows:

The Property Man—Eloise Belanger.

Mung Chiu-pu, a Chinese prince—Lucille Gessner.

Cheng Loy Fah, his betrothed—Mildred Richter.

The Dragon—Mrs. Holderman.

The Spirit of Mung Sin Chee, ancestor of Mung Chiu-pu—Helen Norval.

The Spirit of Tai Hoo Tso, ancestor of Cheng Loy Fah—Louise Pirlot.

Mandarin of the Sapphire Button—Harriet Lawrence.

The Flower Girl—Dorothy Hemmes.

The play was under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Holderman.

Interment will be in Lakeview cemetery.

TWO COMPANIES HOLD ELECTION

Directors and Officers
Are Named by Paper
and Power Concerns

Directors and officers were elected at the annual meetings of the stockholders of the Escanaba Paper company and the Escanaba Power and Traction company yesterday morning and afternoon.

Results of the Escanaba Paper company election were as follows: Directors, Sidney Ferguson, New York City; R. G. Corwin, Dayton; J. G. Sutherland, Dayton; H. S. Mead, Dayton; H. M. Stack, J. H. Slater, J. B. Moran, H. J. Rushton and M. N. Smith; president, M. N. Smith; vice president, Sidney Ferguson; treasurer, E. G. Bennett; and secretary, H. J. Rushton.

The personnel of the Escanaba Power & Traction company follows: Directors, H. M. Stack, Sidney Ferguson, J. B. Moran, Alex Buchheit, Watertown, Wis.; E. G. Ricker, Milwaukee; C. J. Driscoll, M. N. Smith; president, J. B. Moran; vice president, Sidney Ferguson; secretary, H. M. Stack; treasurer, M. N. Smith; assistant secretary and assistant treasurer, C. J. Driscoll.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the Escanaba Paper company in the morning, General Manager Joseph H. Slater submitted his report, which showed that the local paper concern had a satisfactory year in view of business conditions in the country during the period.

Merchants, Hotels Watch for Fakers

A warning urging Escanaba merchants and hotel men to investigate and inquire before giving credit or cashing checks for strangers was issued yesterday by the Escanaba police department.

Fakers are active in all parts of the country. Guiltless merchants and hotels are giving credit to or cashing checks for persons who falsely claim business or editorial connections with metropolitan journals or press associations. Investigation is seldom resented by persons legitimately asking favors, and business men of Escanaba are warned not to take unnecessary chances.

Gone for 35 Years; Returns for Visit

Godfred Arnold of Ludington, Mich., who was employed here as a baker at the Hoyer Baking company's shop 35 years ago when that establishment was owned by Richard Hoyer, has returned to this city to visit with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arnold, South Ninth street. Mr. Arnold said yesterday that he had found many changes in Escanaba since his departure from here and that great progress has been made in that length of time. He visited recently at Milwaukee with his daughter who resides in that city.

Trustees Entertained—Rt. Rev. Msgr. R. G. Jacques entertained the trustees of his parish at a six o'clock dinner followed by a smoker Sunday evening at the rectory.

Lived Near Prison—News of the riot in the prison at Dartmoor, England, was read with interest by Harry Broad, Eight Avenue South, for he was born and spent his early years in a town just outside of Dartmoor. He visited the penal institution when he returned to England in 1925. Mr. Broad came to the United States in his teens, settling first in Fayette.

Excused from Exams—Word has been received by Principal John A. Lemmer of the Escanaba high school that Jack Bartella, Jr., will be excused from the mental examinations at the West Point military academy because of his fine record in high school and Michigan State College, which he is now attending. Jack was recommended for the principal appointment to West Point several weeks ago by Congressman Frank P. Bohm.

Seek Used Books—The classes in Escanaba high school wish to obtain used copies of Ellwood's Sociology, Durell and Arnold's Solid Geometry and Durell and Arnold's Trigonometry. Any former students having these books are asked to call the principal's office at the high school.

Attends Convention—George E. Harvey left yesterday for Milwaukee to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Fair Secretaries' association.

Join Rifle Club—Three Hermansville men are among the new members of the Escanaba Rifle club. The list includes: Dr. J. K. Parrish, Otto Bartl and George Bartl, Hermansville; Walter Nelson, Wally Arntzen, Arthur Sorensen, Frank Weber and Richard Weber, Escanaba.

Ladies' Aid—The Ladies' Aid of North Escanaba will meet in the church chapel at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Andrew Dahlberg and Mrs. Victor Olson, hostesses. A welcome is extended to all.

Mid-week Services—Mid-week services of the First Presbyterian congregation will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. D. A. Oliver, 721 First avenue south.

Order of Runeberg—The Order of Runeberg will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Unity hall. Lunch will be served and a dance will follow.

MUST'N'T KICK COPS—Baltimore, Md.—George Levy, when he's angry, is particular about kicking cops. He got into an argument with a restaurant proprietor over his order and the cops were called. While Patrolman Stevens was taking Levy to a patrol alarm box, Levy kicked him on the shins several times. That made it tough for him when he faced Magistrate Cadden.

M-35 HEARINGS SET FOR FEB. 4

State Takes Steps to Condemn Property
On New Road

In order to speed the start of construction work on M-35 from Escanaba to Ford River, authorized as a part of the state's winter program to provide employment, the project has been advertised for bids Feb. 9, and the first step has been taken to condemn property for the right-of-way not already acquired by purchase.

The job will consist of clearing, grading and the installation of drainage structures, involving a large amount of hand work which will give employment to a large crew of men. Construction of a bridge over the Ford river, now under way, is a part of the project, and the construction job is over five miles in length.

Under the provisions of Section 4 of Act 352, public acts of 1925, the following property owners have been notified to appear at the Delta county court house Feb. 4 at 2:30 p. m. for a hearing in the condemnation proceedings:

James Wellings and wife, Anna Wellings, Louis J. Wellings and wife, Chicago; D. A. Brotherton and wife, H. O. Brotherton and wife, E. J. Lindstrom and wife, Fred LeDue and wife, E. J. MacMartin and wife, Leslie Farrell and wife, A. F. Holman and wife, St. Louis; Hazel M. Brown, Trout Creek; Laura M. Brown; Charles M. Webster and wife, Baraboo, Wis.; Miss Vernice S. Boehlke, Dickinson, N. D. Several of the property descriptions involved are subject to tax interests of the auditor general and mortgage interests held locally.

Fairport Fisherman Given Fine Of $75

Earl Killoran, 35, Fairport fisherman, was convicted in Justice Marcus Hoyt's court in Suttons Bay last week on a charge of illegal fishing and fined $75, with an alternative of 50 days in jail, according to a story appearing in the Grand Rapids Press.

He was arrested by Capt. Charles Allers of a conservation department patrol boat several weeks ago after a chase in Lake Michigan off Manitou islands. Capt. Allers testified Killoran's boat was empty when he overhauled it, but several tons of whitefish were thrown overboard in the chase. The fish were floating on the water when Killoran was apprehended, Capt. Allers stated.

Salvation Army's Funds Increased, Reports Indicate

Partial reports of the campaign to raise funds for the Salvation Army indicate a 20 per cent increase over last year's receipts. George C. Genesee, chairman of the fund campaign, announced yesterday.

Several canvassers have failed to file their returns, and are urged by Chairman Genesee to do so before the end of the week.

State Exchanges for Forest Lands

Lansing—Through an acre for acre exchange with the Hiawatha Sportsman's Club, 2,400 acres of land have been acquired by the Department of Conservation for blocking out purposes in the Mackinac State Forest. The state exchanged an equal area outside the forest boundary desired by the club in Mackinac county.

"STOP" was the word
But one tough bird
Drove on. The cop began to bristle
At being scoffed . . .
But then, he coughed
And coughed . . . and couldn't

Your throat went stiff.
